New Talks May Be Held In Vienna

June 3 And 4 Seen Dates For Meeting Of Kennedy, Mr. K

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official announcement of a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting in Vienna June 3 and 4 is expected before the end of the week. Authorities indicate the announcement will be made Friday.

Administration officials said President Kennedy wants to discuss informally with Soviet Premier Khrushchev a wide range of cold war problems with heavy emphasis on his belief in the urgent need for agreement on a treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests.

Returning today from a visit to Canada, Kennedy now has about 10 days in which to prepare for the meeting and for conferences with French President Charles de Gaulle at Paris May 31-June 2.

The White House and State Department were formally silent on completion of arrangements for the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting. But a number of developments Wednesday gave support to reports Kennedy and Khrushchev have substantially agreed to get together.

At Ottawa, White House news secretary Pierre Salinger disclosed that Kennedy had discussed the prospective Khrushchev meeting with Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker. That was the first public word from the White House beyond Salinger's earlier statements this week that there were no plans for such a conference "at present."

Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday that the President had a conference with Khrushchev "under consideration" and that the final decision was up to the President.

Press dispatches from Moscow quoted Western diplomats there as saying that a meeting was certain and predicting that it would be held at Vienna June 3 or 4.

Information available here was that according to plans already developed the President would arrive in Vienna from Paris June 3 and remain there until sometime June 4. The time schedule apparently would allow for several long talks between him and Khrushchev.

Diplomatic authorities here say that Kennedy does not envision the Khrushchev conferences as a negotiation nor does he contemplate trying to reach firm agreements on critical world issues.

He apparently does wish to make a strong personal appeal to Khrushchev to modify the Soviet position in the deadlocked U.S.-British-Soviet negotiations at Geneva on banning nuclear weapons tests.

Unless there is some change in the Geneva conference it is threatened with collapse in a few weeks. Officials say privately that Kennedy would then be under heavy pressure to order a resumption of U.S. nuclear weapons tests.

Gore Sees Danger In Proposed Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators struck a cautionary note today on the kind of personal diplomacy that apparently is leading to a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. calls the proposed meeting "premature and ill-advised" under present world conditions.

Gore, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview that he seriously questions whether Kennedy should "resort to personalized diplomacy."

"Coming in the wake of the Cuban and Laotian affairs and before the President has had the necessary time to consolidate his own positive foreign policy program, I think great risks are involved in a meeting of contending heads of states," he said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that while he did not share Gore's fears, he agreed that if a personal meeting with Khrushchev is considered "we ought to go into it with our eyes wide open."

Mansfield emphasized that an informal talk between Kennedy and Khrushchev did not constitute a summit meeting "but an opportunity for the two heads to size up each other and size up world problems."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a statement that Kennedy should approach a meeting with Khrushchev "with the utmost caution."

'Aviation Catastrophe'

5 High-Ranking Red Officers Die In Air Tragedy

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet news agency said today five high ranking officers of the Soviet armed forces have died in an "aviation catastrophe."

Tass said the officers included the army's full Gen. Vladimir Y. Kolpakchi.

The others were identified as Col. Gen. S. N. Perevertkin, Lt. Gen. V. I. Goffe, Maj. Gen. A. P. Morozov and Col. V. V. Khikhlovsky.

Tass said the announcement of the air crash came from the Defense Ministry.

Kolpakchi, 62, was a veteran of the Bolshevik forces in the revolutionary fighting of 1918-20. He held various commands during World War II, during which he won many decorations, and led the Soviet army in the final attack on Berlin. He was appointed to the defense staff in 1956.

Available reference books give no clues to the identity of the other four crash victims named.

Tass provided no details of the accident, but it seemed likely a number of other persons must have been killed. In addition to the flight crew, an aircraft with so many high-ranking officers aboard would almost certainly have carried a number of their aides.

The announcement as reported by Tass gave no clues to the point of origin or destination of the fatal flight.

The secrecy roused speculation that the accident might have had some connection with Soviet space exploits.

Chester Eyes State Aid In Job Project

Street Repair Might Be Used To Give Unemployed Work

Chester officials are preparing application for West Virginia aid on a city project through the "crash" employment program recently launched by the state.

Mayor Ray Collins Wednesday night outlined the procedure for obtaining the aid — employment of local residents on public works with the pay provided by government grants — at a meeting of Council.

He read a letter from Patrick Boggs, aide to Gov. W. W. Barron, which advised the city to select a simple project and notify the state, after which a state road engineer will be sent to Chester to survey the planned work.

The outline of the project should be in broad terms, and should list the estimated number of people required, Boggs' letter noted.

Council last night briefly discussed street work as the proposed project, but further study will be made by city officials.

City Solicitor Ruth Cox Turner is slated to present the proposed project to Boggs during a visit at Charleston Monday.

A lengthy discussion was held on a complaint by Dr. Milton Wolpert, 815 Carolina Ave., about lack of parking facilities on the street by his home.

Dr. Wolpert, whose car has twice been ticketed for illegal parking, said street restrictions prevent his parking at his home properly.

It was explained the ordinance was approved in October establishing three lanes for traffic near the 8th St. intersection to permit easier flow of cars and trucks. This ordinance restricted parking in the area.

Police Chief Harold Davis and Patrolman Clarence Lennens reported they were only enforcing city regulations in ticketing cars

3 Hurt Badly As Carrollton Car Hits Tree

Driver, Mother And Daughter Injured At Hammondsville

Three members of a Carrollton area family were injured seriously when their car slammed into a tree on County Rd. 50 in Hammondsville Wednesday afternoon about 4:30.

The Jefferson County sheriff's office said the car, driven by Mrs. Rhoda Winters, 47, of Carrollton R. D. 1, struck a hedge, skidded through a guardrail and struck a utility pole and then the tree.

The 1950 four-door sedan was heavily damaged, deputies said.

Mrs. Winters is in "poor" condition today at City Hospital with severe lacerations and bruises of the right eye, lacerations of the knee and possible chest injuries.

Her daughter and granddaughter, passengers in the vehicle, also were admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Pearl Short, 30, of Carrollton R. D. 1 is in "poor" condition with severe lacerations of the forehead and right eye and lacerations of the left ankle. Her daughter, Susan Short, 5, is in "satisfactory" condition with a possible fracture of the cervical vertebrae.

New Waterford Man Hurt In Auto Wreck

Frank M. Gregorino, 48, of Boardman St., New Waterford, is in "fair" condition today at Youngstown South Side Hospital with injuries suffered when his car rammed a culvert and caught fire on Route 7 near North Lima Wednesday.

Gregorino suffered a fractured arm, fractures of the ribs and severe cuts of the face and scalp when his auto veered off the roadway about a mile north of the Columbiana County line at 11:20 a. m.

Patient Goes Berserk

Two Stabbed To Death, Four Others Are Injured

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A berserk mental patient stabbed to death a nurse and an orderly in a locked hospital ward Wednesday night and then stabbed four more persons.

Police shot and captured him as he sang hymns and quoted from the Bible.

Ted Bowen, administrator of Methodist Hospital, identified the patient as Charles E. White, 36, a machine operator.

Dead were Gladys Lucille Foreman, 49, whose throat was cut, and James Newton, who was stabbed in the chest and stomach.

Injured were Anne Porter, 21, a student nurse, cut on the throat; Ruth Gordon, 62, nurse, stabbed in the chest and stomach; Edna Fuller, 45, medical supervisor, stabbed in the stomach; and Otto Voigt, 54, a patient, stabbed in the lower back. Mrs. Gordon was in critical condition after surgery. The others were in fair condition.

The administrator gave this account:

About an hour and a half after White was admitted, Mrs. Foreman staggered from the ward, bleeding profusely and calling for help.

Mrs. Fuller, the supervisor, went into the ward, found Newton on the floor and White brandishing a large pocket knife.

White stabbed Mrs. Fuller, ran into the occupational therapy room, where he stabbed Mrs. Gordon and Voigt, and then into the south wing, where he cut Mrs. Porter on the throat.

Several male patients then jumped White and wrestled him into a sun room.

When White refused to surrender officers fired a tear gas shell and a policeman fired two pistol shots, wounding White in the hand that held the knife.

White changed the knife to the other hand.

An officer then fired a shotgun blast, wounding White in the arm. He dropped the knife and the officers rushed in and grabbed him.

West Sifts Red Plan At Laos Parley

Gromyko Presents Package Deal After Rusk's Proposals

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Western spokesmen at the East-West conference on Laos today viewed Soviet proposals for neutralizing the Southeast Asian kingdom as a mass of veto traps to prevent interference with ultimate Communist seizure of the country.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Britain's Foreign Secretary Lord Home and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville met to study the plan put forward by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and compare it with recommendations made earlier by Lord Home and Rusk.

A French spokesman said: "All delegations are so much in agreement on the general objectives of the conference we could go home tomorrow if it weren't for the means of reaching these objectives. There are considerable differences of opinion on them."

Gromyko outlined his package plan after Rusk proposed a three-point program designed to take Laos out of the cold war: (1) a definition of neutrality for the country which all participants in the conference can accept; (2) an effective control machinery to supervise Laotian neutrality; (3) an economic aid program for the Buddhist kingdom that would be administered by neutral Southeast Asian countries.

Gromyko went along with the general objectives but Western diplomats objected to several features of the Soviet plan.

The India-Canada-Poland truce commission would investigate neutrality violations only when ordered to do so by the co-chairmen of the current conference—the Soviet Union and Britain. Unless the Soviets agreed, there could be no investigation.

The commission would "conduct its work under the general guidance and supervision of the two co-chairmen." Again the Soviets would have to agree.

All decisions of the commission would be by unanimous vote. Poland thus could veto any decision the Communists did not approve. The American proposal called for majority decisions.

And the control commission, according to the Soviet plan, would "conduct its entire work on supervision and control in cooperation with the government of Laos." Western delegates saw this working against effective supervision if Communist or pro-Communist elements gained the upper hand in the Laotian government.

Months of haggling appeared in prospect for the conference.

U.S. Helicopter Sets World Speed Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy announced today a world speed record for helicopters—192.9 miles an hour.

The mark, exceeding the former Soviet-held record by a wide margin, was set Wednesday by a Navy twin-turbine Sikorsky helicopter at Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn.

The former fastest time was 166.5 miles an hour flown by a Soviet helicopter Nov. 1, 1959, over a three-kilometer (1.86-mile) straight line course.

The craft was flown by Cmdr. Patrick L. Sullivan, 37, New York City, pilot; and Lt. Beverly W. Witherspoon, 28, Durham, N.C., copilot.

Aims Stated By Premier, President

Kennedy Warns Reds At Windup Of First State Visit

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker agreed today that the Castro dictatorship in Cuba threatens both "the peaceful and democratic evolution" of Latin America.

Kennedy Returns From Canadian Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy returned today from his state visit to Canada, arriving at Andrews Air Force Base at 11:12 a.m. His jet plane left Ottawa exactly an hour earlier.

In a communique issued before Kennedy headed back to Washington, the U.S. and Canadian leaders also said effective control machinery will be essential to achieve peace and stability in Laos and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Kennedy and Diefenbaker concluded the survey of their two-day conversations with this broad statement of common aims: "To banish the scourge of war, to improve the human lot, to defend and to enlarge the area of freedom, to assist peoples less privileged than our own — these are aims that bind together Canada and the United States and which, with other allies and friends, our two countries will, jointly and steadfastly, pursue."

Kennedy ended his first state visit on a note of warning for Red aggressors and of challenge the North Atlantic allies to strengthen the security of the free world. He had held out those objectives in a speech to Parliament Wednesday.

In that same address he called for Canada to step up its contributions to the welfare of underdeveloped Latin-American nations and join the Organization of American States.

The communique made no direct reference to this appeal. It said Kennedy and Diefenbaker discussed the need for accelerating economic progress and social reform as well as strengthening the Western Hemisphere trend away from dictatorship and toward democracy. These objectives are closely related, it added.

"They were in accord that the alignment of a regime in the Western Hemisphere with Communist leadership abroad was a matter for serious concern, threatening as it did the peaceful and democratic evolution of the Latin American peoples," it said.

Diefenbaker assured Kennedy of Canada's "continued and increasing interest in inter-American affairs."

The statement referring to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro was something Kennedy had sought in his trip to Ottawa—his first outside the United States since his inauguration. Canada previously had exhibited less concern than the United States over the potential menace, of Castro's link with the Soviet Union, to the entire Western Hemisphere.

As to the call to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's conventional and nuclear power, the two leaders said: "It is more than ever necessary that the strength and unity of NATO be reinforced."

They omitted any mention of specific increases by Canada or other NATO governments to the alliance's defense forces, but did assert that a strong defense must

Coup Given Stamp Of Legality

Chang And Cabinet Quit; Military Rules In Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Premier John M. Chang and his Cabinet resigned today and the military emerged triumphant in a revolt they said would put new life into South Korea's battle against corruption, poverty and communism.

The 61-year-old elected premier's bow-out gave a stamp of legality to the coup led by Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, 38, army chief of staff.

Leaders of the revolution immediately named a 30-man committee of military figures to run the country. It was headed by Gen. Chang with Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi, considered the mastermind of the uprising, as No. 2 man. Chiefs of all the other armed forces were included.

Lt. Gen. Kim Chong-oh, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was listed as the third-ranking official of the new regime, followed by Lt. Gen. Park Limhang, who earlier was reported to have replaced Lt. Gen. Lee Hanlim as commander of the powerful 1st Field Army.

The replacement of Lee was not officially confirmed, but well-placed military sources said he had been ousted because he did not back the coup from the start. Lee, commanding on the critical armistice border with North Korea, at first took a neutral stand toward the coup and only came out in support of it early today.

Deposed Premier Chang accepted full "moral and political responsibility" for the two-day crisis in which American officials in Korea unsuccessfully backed his government.

Coming out of hiding to capitulate, he made a plea for the closing of ranks and international support of the new regime.

"There must be no more bloodshed," he told newsmen after resigning. "We must strengthen our anti-Communist stand and we must seek international support."

As his last act he issued a retroactive proclamation of martial law, confirming a similar order issued by Gen. Chang Tuesday shortly after his forces took over Seoul. The intent appeared to be to strengthen the technical legality of the military takeover.

After calling on President Yun Po-sun, Chang went home, describing himself as "once more just a plain citizen." But it was not clear whether he was free to move around.

Ten Cabinet ministers who resigned "en masse" with him were also freed to go home. Five ministers were still in hiding and failed to respond to a call from the revolutionary leaders to the showdown meeting with the junta that preceded the cabinet resignation.

For the moment there was no comment from the U.S. Embassy or the State Department in Washington.

Washington had adopted an official hands-off policy toward the coup after American officials here came out in open support of the elected parliamentary government.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green and Gen. Carter Magruder, American commander of U.N. forces in South Korea, issued strong statements criticizing the uprising and calling on the military to return Premier Chang to power.

But Magruder ordered the 50,000 American troops in Korea to stay out of the local political upheaval, and the rebels, assured that they would not have to contend with American force, went ahead.

Community College Plan Revived In Surprise Step

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The community college bill, which most people thought was dead and buried, has come back to life. Not only that, it has successfully completed half its trip through the legislature.

In a major upset of this session, Senate minority Democrats brought the community college measure out of limbo Wednesday and substituted it for a bill authorizing locally financed and controlled post-high school technical training institutes.

Twenty votes are needed to pass a bill in the Ohio Senate, and Democrats got just that many. This was because they were joined by Republicans Kline L. Roberts and Richard B. Metcalf, both of Franklin County, and Charles Whalen of Montgomery County.

One of the 18 Democratic senators (there are 20 Republicans), J. Sherman Porter of Gallia County, voted against substitution-by-amendment. The final count was 20-18.

But Democrats were able to gain only one victory in a long battle before the Senate passed a bill which sponsors say should shield Ohio's workmen's compensation fund from claims by those not truly injured.

The bill to revise the workmen's compensation law passed 22-16. Democrats Julius J. Petrash of Cuyahoga County and John C. Smith of Montgomery voted with the 20 Republican senators.

The sole Democratic triumph in that floor battle was to get approval, by a whisker, 20-18, of an amendment deleting one provision. It would have prevented anyone but a lawyer from representing someone making a claim for workmen's compensation.

The mark, exceeding the former Soviet-held record by a wide margin, was set Wednesday by a Navy twin-turbine Sikorsky helicopter at Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn.

The former fastest time was 166.5 miles an hour flown by a Soviet helicopter Nov. 1, 1959, over a three-kilometer (1.86-mile) straight line course.

The craft was flown by Cmdr. Patrick L. Sullivan, 37, New York City, pilot; and Lt. Beverly W. Witherspoon, 28, Durham, N.C., copilot.

Aims Stated By Premier, President

Kennedy Warns Reds At Windup Of First State Visit

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker agreed today that the Castro dictatorship in Cuba threatens both "the peaceful and democratic evolution" of Latin America.

Kennedy Returns From Canadian Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy returned today from his state visit to Canada, arriving at Andrews Air Force Base at 11:12 a.m. His jet plane left Ottawa exactly an hour earlier.

In a communique issued before Kennedy headed back to Washington, the U.S. and Canadian leaders also said effective control machinery will be essential to achieve peace and stability in Laos and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Kennedy and Diefenbaker concluded the survey of their two-day conversations with this broad statement of common aims: "To banish the scourge of war, to improve the human lot, to defend and to enlarge the area of freedom, to assist peoples less privileged than our own — these are aims that bind together Canada and the United States and which, with other allies and friends, our two countries will, jointly and steadfastly, pursue."

Kennedy ended his first state visit on a note of warning for Red aggressors and of challenge the North Atlantic allies to strengthen the security of the free world. He had held out those objectives in a speech to Parliament Wednesday.

In that same address he called for Canada to step up its contributions to the welfare of underdeveloped Latin-American nations and join the Organization of American States.

The communique made no direct reference to this appeal. It said Kennedy and Diefenbaker discussed the need for accelerating economic progress and social reform as well as strengthening the Western Hemisphere trend away from dictatorship and toward democracy. These objectives are closely related, it added.

"They were in accord that the alignment of a regime in the Western Hemisphere with Communist leadership abroad was a matter for serious concern, threatening as it did the peaceful and democratic evolution of the Latin American peoples," it said.

Diefenbaker assured Kennedy of Canada's "continued and increasing interest in inter-American affairs."

The statement referring to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro was something Kennedy had sought in his trip to Ottawa—his first outside the United States since his inauguration. Canada previously had exhibited less concern than the United States over the potential menace, of Castro's link with the Soviet Union, to the entire Western Hemisphere.

As to the call to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's conventional and nuclear power, the two leaders said: "It is more than ever necessary that the strength and unity of NATO be reinforced."

They omitted any mention of specific increases by Canada or other NATO governments to the alliance's defense forces, but did assert that a strong defense must

Coup Given Stamp Of Legality

Chang And Cabinet Quit; Military Rules In Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Premier John M. Chang and his Cabinet resigned today and the military emerged triumphant in a revolt they said would put new life into South Korea's battle against corruption, poverty and communism.

The 61-year-old elected premier's bow-out gave a stamp of legality to the coup led by Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, 38, army chief of staff.

Leaders of the revolution immediately named a 30-man committee of military figures to run the country. It was headed by Gen. Chang with Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi, considered the mastermind of the uprising, as No. 2 man. Chiefs of all the other armed forces were included.

Lt. Gen. Kim Chong-oh, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was listed as the third-ranking official of the new regime, followed by Lt. Gen. Park Limhang, who earlier was reported to have replaced Lt. Gen. Lee Hanlim as commander of the powerful 1st Field Army.

The replacement of Lee was not officially confirmed, but well-placed military sources said he had been ousted because he did not back the coup from the start. Lee, commanding on the critical armistice border with North Korea, at first took a neutral stand toward the coup and only came out in support of it early today.

Deposed Premier Chang accepted full "moral and political responsibility" for the two-day crisis in which American officials in Korea unsuccessfully backed his government.

Coming out of hiding to capitulate, he made a plea for the closing of ranks and international support of the new regime.

"There must be no more bloodshed," he told newsmen after resigning. "We must strengthen our anti-Communist stand and we must seek international support."

As his last act he issued a retroactive proclamation of martial law, confirming a similar order issued by Gen. Chang Tuesday shortly after his forces took over Seoul. The intent appeared to be to strengthen the technical legality of the military takeover.

After calling on President Yun Po-sun, Chang went home, describing himself as "once more just a plain citizen." But it was not clear whether he was free to move around.

Ten Cabinet ministers who resigned "en masse" with him were also freed to go home. Five ministers were still in hiding and failed to respond to a call from the revolutionary leaders to the showdown meeting with the junta that preceded the cabinet resignation.

For the moment there was no comment from the U.S. Embassy or the State Department in Washington.

Washington had adopted an official hands-off policy toward the coup after American officials here came out in open support of the elected parliamentary government.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green and Gen. Carter Magruder, American commander of U.N. forces in South Korea, issued strong statements criticizing the uprising and calling on the military to return Premier Chang to power.

But Magruder ordered the 50,000 American troops in Korea to stay out of the local political upheaval, and the rebels, assured that they would not have to contend with American force, went ahead.

Community College Plan Revived In Surprise Step

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The community college bill, which most people thought was dead and buried, has come back to life. Not only that, it has successfully completed half its trip through the legislature.

In a major upset of this session, Senate minority Democrats brought the community college measure out of limbo Wednesday and substituted it for a bill authorizing locally financed and controlled post-high school technical training institutes.

Twenty votes are needed to pass a bill in the Ohio Senate, and Democrats got just that many. This was because they were joined by Republicans Kline L. Roberts and Richard B. Metcalf, both of Franklin County, and Charles Whalen of Montgomery County.

One of the 18 Democratic senators (there are 20 Republicans), J. Sherman Porter of Gallia County, voted against substitution-by-amendment. The final count was 20-18.

But Democrats were able to gain only one victory in a long battle before the Senate passed a bill which sponsors say should shield Ohio's workmen's compensation fund from claims by those not truly injured.

The bill to revise the workmen's compensation law passed 22-16. Democrats Julius J. Petrash of Cuyahoga County and John C. Smith of Montgomery voted with the 20 Republican senators.

The sole Democratic triumph in that floor battle was to get approval, by a whisker, 20-18, of an amendment deleting one provision. It would have prevented anyone but a lawyer from representing someone making a claim for workmen's compensation.

Nehru Greets Johnson At New Delhi Airport

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru, in a break with protocol, went to the airport today to greet U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson on his arrival for talks about Western aid for India's multimillion-dollar development plans.

The Indian leader was to have received President Kennedy's touring emissary at his downtown office but he made an unscheduled appearance among the welcomers as a special show of courtesy.

Plane's Bomb Threat Proves To Be Razor

PARIS (AP)—A pilot at Orly Airfield rushed to inform police Wednesday night when he heard a strange buzzing coming from the washroom of a plane he was about to fly to Africa.

The pilot feared someone had planted a time bomb. Police cautiously opened the washroom door—and found an electric razor that someone had left plugged in.

U.S. Hope Has Been Abused

President Kennedy will not ask anything of Premier Khrushchev if and when they meet. It won't be that kind of a meeting.

U.S. hope has been abused so wantonly by the Soviet Union that it has ceased to exist. Even the few Americans who still talk hopefully know now there is no blue fairy in the Kremlin.

The message President Kennedy will have for Premier Khrushchev will concern prospects of U.S. action—that this country will resume nuclear testing in the absence of cooperation to ban it—that this country will shut off negotiations to limit arms—that the United States will not put up with any further pushing around by the bully-boys of the Communist Conspiracy.

If Kennedy and Khrushchev meet and talk turkey, there is every likelihood this time that Khrushchev will go home with as many bones in his throat as he customarily rams down the necks of his diplomatic antagonists. And there is one thing Mr. Kennedy won't say that Khrushchev should know about.

THE AMERICAN people's mood about the Soviet Union has undergone a drastic change in the last year. Robbed of all hope for peace on any terms that would be tolerable, the American people are resigned to a prospect of endless trouble with the Soviet Union and its co-conspirators against peace; they are starting to demand more vigorous anti-Communist assertion.

Khrushchev and his regime have done what Josef Stalin and his regime never did and would not have risked. They have needled the United States into asserting itself against a bullying Soviet government. They have made principle seem more important than the preservation of a kind of peace Russian Communists never believed in anyway.

Even if Premier Khrushchev showed up for a meeting with President Kennedy dressed like a dove and in a mood to coo like one, no one would take him seriously. If it actually was his game to try to fool all of the American people all of the time with his occasional flashes of what seemed to be good will, he has played out his string.

DURING the presidential campaign last fall, the weakest point in the Kennedy case was a policy of conciliation toward the Kremlin. Mr. Kennedy weakened himself with a hint that he thought President Eisenhower should have tried to soothe Premier Krushchev after the U2 disclosure.

This in itself caused part of the hardening of popular opinion against the Soviet Union. There was angry rejection of any hint of conciliation toward a government whose record of ill will was broken only by instances of apparent good will intended to throw Americans off guard.

No one ever has accused Nikita Khrushchev of being thickheaded. His mind is quick, responsive and perceptive. If John F. Kennedy tells the leader of Russia what the leader of the United States would be justified in saying at this time, he will inform him crisply that he is crowding his luck.

As much as the American people want peace, there is a limit to their patience. If Premier Khrushchev can understand that, he will be a statesman.

Vote For Progress

The voters of Hancock County left little doubt as to their feeling about new educational facilities when they passed a $5,283,000 school bond issue at Tuesday's special election.

The vote was 4,584 to 1,310 in support of the issue, which will finance construction of four new schools and the remodeling of several buildings.

The people have done their part. The responsibility now shifts to the County Board of Education which will be in charge of the expansion program. Members of the board have been handling their duties well and there is every reason to believe that under their guidance the county's school system will rank among the most modern in West Virginia upon completion of improvements provided by the bond issue.

Progress was written all over Tuesday's ballots.

Not Perfect But Disciplined

There being nothing in sight strong enough to challenge the Korean militarists who have blown the whistle on a government they considered to be corrupt, the latest military seizure will be "permanent."

The seizure a year ago, when the Korean army restored order after student rioters had been turned loose against the Rhee government, was to have been "permanent" too. But permanency in military governments and in civil governments backed by military governments is subject to change without notice.

Military officials, themselves, are as corrupt and ambitious as anyone else. South Korean officials were accused successfully of stuffing ballot boxes for Rhee when his government was accused of corruption. They may be accused of doing something equally bad when the next government is accused of corruption.

It is not the fact that the military branch of government is less corruptible that makes it the standby strength of tottering governments; it is the fact the military branch of government is disciplined. If the discipline also has the effect of curtailing corruption, that is a bonus for which taxpayers should be thankful. But they should not count on the bonus.

The Korean army is strong. It showed it was strong enough a year ago to straighten out the republic after the Rhee government fell. It was strong enough a year later to liquidate a government and make the United States look like a chump for trying to save something beyond saving.

There is no other disciplined force in the Korean republic, except the United States forces stationed there to maintain the truce with the Communists. It now seems to have been abundantly clear that the U.S. forces in Korea are not there to save Korean governments.

Shot In The Arm

The district got another lift economically with Wednesday's announcement that Plant 1 of the W. S. George Pottery Co. will reopen at East Palestine.

It's real and quite welcome news when any pottery unit reopens these days in view of the financial problems which have forced closings or curtailments in many cases.

Resumption of the George plant through an agreement with the Royal China Co. of Sebring will prove a shot in the arm for East Palestine. There will be no complaints if some of Palestine's good fortune rubs off on other communities.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Washington in current "It's all done by money" mood, announces plan to fight juvenile delinquency by $10 million annual expenditure through federal grants, researchers, larger staffs and psychologists to Train Teachers to Detect Bad Tendencies in Advance!

Remember away back when the wrong-way kid was detected fast by pint-sized female schoolma'am with just ordinary intelligence and put back on the right path unassisted?

Juvenile delinquency was almost unknown and there was no loud cries of "I gotta have federal grants and some psychologists" from the Little Red Schoolhouse.

President's opening sentence. "I have received reports indicating there has been an increase in juvenile delinquency," is most belated discovery to come from White House.

Abraham Ribicoff, Arthur Goldberg, Brother Bob Kennedy and a young classmate of the latter will head the drive.

Mom, pop, schools and broken homes are top targets mentioned, with no mention of horror movies and TV crime shows which blueprint routines of gangsters and punks for moppets.

But mom and pop are used to getting the blame, although they are working harder on the problem than any Washington committee ever can. (Boy, if they only had $10 million!)

It will be interesting to watch new groups, spending $10 million a year, hurrying to meeting and passing all those theaters housing crime movies or stopping at a repair shop to see about getting the TV set fixed so the violence will be brighter.

A CHEMIST has patented a baseball bat with grooves and knobs to improve hitting. Now if he will come up with a lumpy baseball with feathers on it.

Sonny Liston, seeking fight with Patterson, has hired a lawyer to be his manager. This can cause some confusion during fight when announcer yells "Liston's mouthpiece has just been knocked out."

Seamen Seek Automation Solution

By Victor Riesel

There could come a moment this summer when our seaports, our gulf ports, our rivers, our lakes and even our rail depots, their freight yards and sidings, could be clogged by a sprawling strike of those who sail for their daily bread.

Victor Riesel

It could come any time after June 15. It could break for any combination of 50 reasons.

It would hand President Kennedy his first really tough labor crisis — for it would paralyze 90 per cent of the nation's freighters, luxury liners, tankers and river craft.

Essential military cargo would move—but that's all. And that's all because one man—respected because his militancy matches his personal honesty, his sense of strategy matches his personal bravery—Paul Hall by name, leader of the Seafarers International Union (SIU) by profession, has meticulously woven together virtually all seagoing men and those who make possible the loading and sailing of ships.

If the crisis breaks out, Paul Hall will lead a combination of nine units covering 130,000 men, ranging from cooks to skippers, from longshoremen to able-bodied seamen, from ship engineers to teamsters.

FORMALLY and otherwise, this combination is in the six-month-old National Committee for Maritime Bargaining—which on April 6 sent notes to the ship operators saying let's begin bargaining.

Before this communication went out, it should be noted, Paul Hall's Seafarers International Union formally affiliated with the Railway Labor Executives Association, a joint committee of leaders of 23 "on train" and maintenance crafts.

Its members supported the SIU in the New York harbor tugboat strike during the very hours of President Kennedy's inauguration —and shut down two lines as far as New England and Cleveland. And they were about to hit the Pennsylvania when the new President asked them to return. They did.

This summer, as last winter, the sailors—acting separately from Joe Curran's National Maritime Union membership, which is not in the national committee—are not too much concerned with money matters.

What concerns the national committee, says its leaders, is the fact that there are only a thousand ships now flying the American flag.

SEVEN OR EIGHT years ago the figure was "several thousand." Within a few years, they say, it may be less than 500.

So now come the national committee leaders and say to the ship (and tanker) owners, we want to help you revitalize the industry.

You want it automated, you want the government to continue to subsidize you with hundreds of millions of dollars, you want more efficiency to meet foreign competition. We want to become your partners in formulating industry policy on many matters before there is no industry.

This, in effect, is what John L. Lewis once said to the dying coal industry. The coal operators agreed. The mines were mechanized. Lewis went to the White House and fought for both sides.

This, in effect, is what Paul Hall and his colleagues are saying they want to do in shipping. There is an automation problem, for example, for both sides. The owners want more. The union wants more guarantees as well as more control consoles.

THE U.S. MARITIME Administration and the Norwegian Marine Technical Research Institute, for example, are working on automatic navigation functions—such as automatic position plotting, control of course and speed, communications, evaluation of weather and one central control room for the deck and engine room watch. Jobs would be eliminated.

This, in an industry where supertankers now are run by 40 sailors compared with the one hundred of old.

There is the problem of competition from the U.S. Military Sea Transport Service.

Hall and his group say they have ideas for attracting new business and reworking trade routes.

If you want all this, say Hall and his colleagues to the industry, bring back the hundreds of ships you have transferred to other flags—that is, registered with other nations whose sailors are paid far less.

Of all this the industry is wary. It is about as enthused over the partnership proposal as John Kennedy is over Dick Nixon's latest speaking tour.

The ship owners may well say to Hall and the national committee: You stick to arguing about wages and hours and working conditions; industry problems are our concern. If so, there will be a strike. If so, after a while no boat will sail and very little will be moved off a dock or a depot. Hall and his committee did it once. They can do it again.

Is This Trip Necessary?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is now doing for President Kennedy what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon used to do for President Eisenhower.

He's traveling abroad, meeting with the heads of foreign governments, giving them the word from Kennedy, and then coming home to report to the President.

These goodwill missions may have some psychological benefit in boosting the ego and self-confidence of people in smaller countries by showing the United States is sufficiently concerned about them to send the No. 2 man over.

But any practical effect from either the Johnson or Nixon journeys — with one notable exception in Nixon's case — is hard to see.

The mistreatment heaped on Nixon in South America shocked the United States into painful realization that not all Latin Americans loved us and that this country was going to have to go some to keep them on the side of the United States.

Nor is it clear why anything Nixon or Johnson may have had to say to the head of a foreign government couldn't have been said just as well by the local American ambassador who could have delivered a message from Kennedy too.

The policy toward every other country is made here in Washington — not on the scene by a visitor, even one as important as Johnson — on information from the American ambassador there, his aide, other advisers, and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Johnson might have been of more practical value to Kennedy if he had remained in Washington and helped get the administration's programs through Congress, where he is an expert. He is an amateur in foreign dealings.

Nevertheless, more and more since World War II it has become a kind of stylish habit to send presidential representatives overseas, to single countries on special missions, or just abroad generally on so-called goodwill trips.

From the very beginning of Johnson's trip the main question has not been what Johnson might say, since he's only the President's special messenger, but what Kennedy might say through him.

If Kennedy has really said anything new, it hasn't been made public. For instance, it seems generally accepted the United States, no matter what happens, will not send U.S. forces directly into Laos.

That country, already more than half lost to Communism, probably will be swallowed up by it eventually, even though Laos is the key to other Southeast Asian nations which are either neutral or tied to the United States.

But the next critical area is South Viet Nam, which has received both military and economic aid from this country. Communist guerillas are tormenting the government there.

These guerilla pushes appear to be only preliminaries, a feeling-out foray before larger pressure is applied. If South Viet Nam goes, then all Southeast Asia is truly in danger.

The other countries there, so close to mammoth Red China, can hardly be expected to stand up against Communist pressure if the United States declines to intervene directly in South Viet Nam in the event the situation there gets critical.

So — the question was: Will Johnson tell President Ngo Dinh Diem not to worry, that the United States will jump in with army and air force if they're needed?

A communique was issued after Johnson's visit. It spoke of more American economic and military help but so far it has not been reported this country promised direct intervention.

There were reports that Johnson, when he got to Thailand, promised U.S. troops might be sent there. Thailand is linked with the United States in a defense treaty and is Laos' next door neighbor.

But Wednesday Johnson, while promising more help to Thailand, brushed aside speculation on American troops being sent there.

Johnson will tell Kennedy what he saw and what he thinks when he gets back.

But this probably won't add anything to what Kennedy already knows from the American ambassadors in Southeast Asia.

School Aid Up In Air

By David Lawrence

Constitutionality Of Issue Remains Clouded

The whole federal aid-to-education program, even as it affects public schools, is up in the air now so far as constitutionality is concerned.

David Lawrence

The Supreme Court of the United States, by announcing this week its refusal to review a decision by the highest court of the State of Vermont that has barred tuition grants for students in sectarian schools, tends to cast doubt on the constitutionality of even such measures as the "GI Bill of Rights."

Likewise, a decision rendered just 30 days ago by a circuit court in Dade County, Florida, sets forth a principle that makes it doubtful whether even public schools where Christmas or Easter celebrations or Bible readings take place — a widespread practice throughout the United States — will be eligible for federal-aid grants or loans.

The Supreme Court of the United States, it is expected, will be asked to review this case after the highest court in Florida passes on it.

It doesn't seem to make any difference that a particular form of religion is not actually taught in a school or that a student has the opportunity to decline to participate in these celebrations or to attend the Bible readings for in the Vermont case, where there were no public high schools in a certain school district and the only educational institutions available were Catholic high schools, the Vermont Supreme Court decision of Jan. 3, 1961, described the situation there as follows:

"There is no requirement that students of other denominations attend the instruction in religion although some students in this category have elected to do so."

Notwithstanding this option, the Vermont court ruled that tax funds may not be used to pay tuition in a church-related school even where there is no public school in the area to serve the pupils. The court held that to do so would violate the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the federal Constitution.

It has been argued by able lawyers that, because of a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1923 denying a taxpayer the right to sue the federal government in connection with the purposes for which it appropriates money, there could be no court case now to test the constitutionality of legislation for the use of federal funds to aid education.

But Congress itself can provide for the right to sue, and President Kennedy has intimated that he would not be averse to court tests.

CERTAINLY the administration has not hesitated to undertake the unprecedented role of "intervenor" in the case of Prince Edward County, Virginia, where the parents of students are given tuition grants to help educate their children in private schools.

Indeed, the question is of broad significance, because the U. S. Census Bureau is authority for the statement that more than half of the 42,429 public school systems in the United States did not provide any secondary education in 1960.

Hence, private schools and religious schools have borne much of the burden, and if no aid can be given by tuition grants to the parents in these 21,646 school systems, this whole plan becomes of doubtful effectiveness and more public schools will have to be built.

Also New York State's latest plan for tuition grants now becomes open to debate on the constitutional issue and so does the National Defense Education Act which provides federal aid to private and parochial schools for the equipment of laboratories to teach science, mathematics and modern languages.

Congress is engaged right now in arranging for more federal aid of various kinds to sectarian as well as public colleges, universities and high schools.

THE THEORY of the legislators who are writing these laws is that, if Congress designates a "special purpose," this removes any constitutional objection. Thus, it is argued, if the purpose is national defense — to educate more scientists so as to compete with the Soviet Union — then it's constitutional.

There can be no higher or more important "special purpose" than secondary school education. If the mere fact that religion may be taught in the same building disqualifies that institution from receiving federal funds, then the school, whether it be public or private, cannot offer persuasively the excuse of a "special purpose."

In fact, the U. S. Department of Justice is endeavoring to become today an active participant in a suit in the federal court to require the closing of the public schools in all counties of the State of Virginia — whether integrated or segregated — unless the state closes down a private school in Prince Edward County which is being supported by state grants of funds to parents or students.

Many observers are wondering why the Supreme Court of the United States refused to review the Vermont case but it may be that this is because the highest court in the land has in the past contradicted itself several times.

THE PRECEDENTS are by no means clear cut. Thus, in 1930 the Supreme Court ruled that state tax money could be appropriated to supply free textbooks to private schools, including sectarian schools.

Also in 1908 the court, in the case of Catholic mission schools on Indian reservations, rejected the argument that the spirit of the Constitution required that the federal government "shall make no appropriation for education in any sectarian schools."

The mixup over legalities is so extensive that about the only way out is for Congress to pass whatever aid-to-education legislation it pleases and provide at the same time for a review by the federal courts of the constitutionality of such legislation.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Atty. Frank Hoover of Montgomery Ave. concluded a visit in Kentucky.

The Colonial Club held its annual May party at the home of Mrs. Robert T. Hall of Park Blvd.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Social Order of Beauceant entertained Sir Knights and ladies of Pilgrim Commandery 55 at the Masonic Temple, with Dr. Harry Birkett as toastmaster.

Catherine Boyd, Betty Rankin and Donna Morrison, Wellsville high school seniors, were presented pins for having the highest scholarship rating.

Robert F. Beatty East Liverpool architect, was notified to report for active military duty at Ft. Hayes, Columbus.

The East Liverpool Business and Professional Women's Club took second place honors in publicity in Class B at the Ohio convention in Cincinnati.

TEN YEARS AGO — Joe Josanec of Neville School became the only champion to repeat when he won the 1951 marbles crown at the YMCA.

A trophy was presented to Jack Frontone, considered by many as one of the best basketball players ever to perform at Wellsville High School.

Mrs. Earl Applegate was succeeded by Mrs. Joseph Weston as president of the Colloquium Club.

'Domesday Book'

People who boggle at censustakers, tax investigators and pollsters can take comfort. Things were just as bad nine centuries ago.

William the Conqueror's "Domesday Book," a tax survey of medieval England, set a model of bureaucratic efficiency for ages to come. A contemporary historian was so scandalized by the degree of prying that he wrote:

"So very narrowly he caused it to be searched out that there was not a single hide (land unit) nor yard of land nor even — it is a shame to tell though it seemed to him no shame to do — an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine that was left that was not set down in his writing."

"Domesday Book" created, however, a detailed portrait of a feudal kingdom that is invaluable today to geographers, genealogists and historians.

Considering that roadless England was emerging from primeval forests and that reading and writing were rare skills, the survey was a remarkable feat. No comparable contemporary record exists in Europe.

To prevent discoloration, thaw frozen fruits in their packages.

U.S. Hope Has Been Abused

President Kennedy will not ask anything of Premier Khrushchev if and when they meet. It won't be that kind of a meeting.

U.S. hope has been abused so wantonly by the Soviet Union that it has ceased to exist. Even the few Americans who still talk hopefully know now there is no blue fairy in the Kremlin.

The message President Kennedy will have for Premier Khrushchev will concern prospects of U.S. action—that this country will resume nuclear testing in the absence of cooperation to ban it—that this country will shut off negotiations to limit arms—that the United States will not put up with any further pushing around by the bully-boys of the Communist Conspiracy.

If Kennedy and Khrushchev meet and talk turkey, there is every likelihood this time that Khrushchev will go home with as many bones in his throat as he customarily rams down the necks of his diplomatic antagonists. And there is one thing Mr. Kennedy won't say that Khrushchev should know about.

THE AMERICAN people's mood about the Soviet Union has undergone a drastic change in the last year. Robbed of all hope for peace on any terms that would be tolerable, the American people are resigned to a prospect of endless trouble with the Soviet Union and its co-conspirators against peace; they are starting to demand more vigorous anti-Communist assertion.

Khrushchev and his regime have done what Josef Stalin and his regime never did and would not have risked. They have needled the United States into asserting itself against a bullying Soviet government. They have made principle seem more important than the preservation of a kind of peace Russian Communists never believed in anyway.

Even if Premier Khrushchev showed up for a meeting with President Kennedy dressed like a dove and in a mood to coo like one, no one would take him seriously. If it actually was his game to try to fool all of the American people all of the time with his occasional flashes of what seemed to be good will, he has played out his string.

DURING the presidential campaign last fall, the weakest point in the Kennedy case was a policy of conciliation toward the Kremlin. Mr. Kennedy weakened himself with a hint that he thought President Eisenhower should have tried to soothe Premier Khrushchev after the U2 disclosure.

This in itself caused part of the hardening of popular opinion against the Soviet Union. There was angry rejection of any hint of conciliation toward a government whose record of ill will was broken only by instances of apparent good will intended to throw Americans off guard.

No one ever has accused Nikita Khrushchev of being thickheaded. His mind is quick, responsive and perceptive. If John F. Kennedy tells the leader of Russia what the leader of the United States would be justified in saying at this time, he will inform him crisply that he is crowding his luck.

As much as the American people want peace, there is a limit to their patience. If Premier Khrushchev can understand that, he will be a statesman.

Vote For Progress

The voters of Hancock County left little doubt as to their feeling about new educational facilities when they passed a $5,283,000 school bond issue at Tuesday's special election.

The vote was 4,584 to 1,310 in support of the issue, which will finance construction of four new schools and the remodeling of several buildings.

The people have done their part. The responsibility now shifts to the County Board of Education which will be in charge of the expansion program. Members of the board have been handling their duties well and there is every reason to believe that under their guidance the county's school system will rank among the most modern in West Virginia upon completion of improvements provided by the bond issue.

Progress was written all over Tuesday's ballots.

Not Perfect But Disciplined

There being nothing in sight strong enough to challenge the Korean, militarists who have blown the whistle on a government they considered to be corrupt, the latest military seizure will be "permanent."

The seizure a year ago, when the Korean army restored order after student rioters had been turned loose against the Rhee government, was to have been "permanent" too. But permanency in military governments and in civil governments backed by military governments is subject to change without notice.

Military officials, themselves, are as corrupt and ambitious as anyone else. South Korean officials were accused successfully of stuffing ballot boxes for Rhee when his government was accused of corruption. They may be accused of doing something equally bad when the next government is accused of corruption.

It is not the fact that the military branch of government is less corruptible that makes it the standby strength of tottering governments; it is the fact the military branch of government is disciplined. If the discipline also has the effect of curtailing corruption, that is a bonus for which taxpayers should be thankful. But they should not count on the bonus.

The Korean army is strong. It showed it was strong enough a year ago to straighten out the republic after the Rhee government fell. It was strong enough a year later to liquidate a government and make the United States look like a chump for trying to save something beyond saving.

There is no other disciplined force in the Korean republic, except the United States forces stationed there to maintain the truce with the Communists. It now seems to have been abundantly clear that the U.S. forces in Korea are not there to save Korean governments.

Shot In The Arm

The district got another lift economically with Wednesday's announcement that Plant 1 of the W. S. George Pottery Co. will reopen at East Palestine.

It's real and quite welcome news when any pottery unit reopens these days in view of the financial problems which have forced closings or curtailments in many cases.

Resumption of the George plant through an agreement with the Royal China Co. of Sebring will prove a shot in the arm for East Palestine. There will be no complaints if some of Palestine's good fortune rubs off on other communities.

Seamen Seek Automation Solution

By Victor Riesel

There could come a moment this summer when our seaports, our gulf ports, our rivers, our lakes and even our rail depots, their freight yards and sidings, could be clogged by a sprawling strike of those who sail for their daily bread.

Victor Riesel

It could come any time after June 15. It could break for any combination of 50 reasons.

It would hand President Kennedy his first really tough labor crisis — for it would paralyze 90 per cent of the nation's freighters, luxury liners, tankers and river craft.

Essential military cargo would move—but that's all. And that's all because one man—respected because his militancy matches his personal honesty, his sense of strategy matches his personal bravery—Paul Hall by name, leader of the Seafarers International Union (SIU) by profession, has meticulously woven together virtually all seagoing men and those who make possible the loading and sailing of ships.

CERTAINLY the administration has not hesitated to undertake the unprecedented role of "intervenor" in the case of Prince Edward County, Virginia, where the parents of students are given tuition grants to help educate their children in private schools.

Indeed, the question is of broad significance, because the U. S. Census Bureau is authority for the statement that more than half of the 42,429 public school systems in the United States did not provide any secondary education in 1960.

Hence, private schools and religious schools have borne much of the burden, and if no aid can be given by tuition grants to the parents in these 21,646 school systems, this whole plan becomes of doubtful effectiveness and more public schools will have to be built.

Also New York State's latest plan for tuition grants now becomes open to debate on the constitutional issue and so does the National Defense Education Act which provides federal aid to private and parochial schools for the equipment of laboratories to teach science, mathematics and modern languages.

Congress is engaged right now in arranging for more federal aid of various kinds to sectarian as well as public colleges, universities and high schools.

THE THEORY of the legislators who are writing these laws is that, if Congress designates a "special purpose," this removes any constitutional objection. Thus, it is argued, if the purpose is national defense — to educate more scientists so as to compete with the Soviet Union — then it's constitutional.

There can be no higher or more important "special purpose" than secondary school education. If the mere fact that religion may be taught in the same building disqualifies that institution from receiving federal funds, then the school, whether it be public or private, cannot offer persuasively the excuse of a "special purpose."

In fact, the U. S. Department of Justice is endeavoring to become today an active participant in a suit in the federal court to require the closing of the public schools in all counties of the State of Virginia — whether integrated or segregated — unless the state closes down a private school in Prince Edward County which is being supported by state grants of funds to parents or students.

Many observers are wondering why the Supreme Court of the United States refused to review the Vermont case but it may be that this is because the highest court in the land has in the past contradicted itself several times.

THE PRECEDENTS are by no means clear cut. Thus, in 1930 the Supreme Court ruled that state tax money could be appropriated to supply free textbooks to private schools, including sectarian schools.

Also in 1908 the court, in the case of Catholic mission schools on Indian reservations, rejected the argument that the spirit of the Constitution required that the federal government "shall make no appropriation for education in any sectarian schools."

The mixup over legalities is so extensive that about the only way out is for Congress to pass whatever aid-to-education legislation it pleases and provide at the same time for a review by the federal courts of the constitutionality of such legislation.

'Domesday Book'

People who boggle at census-takers, tax investigators and pollsters can take comfort. Things were just as bad nine centuries ago.

William the Conqueror's "Domesday Book," a tax survey of medieval England, set a model of bureaucratic efficiency for ages to come. A contemporary historian was so scandalized by the degree of prying that he wrote:

"So very narrowly he caused it to be searched out that there was not a single hide (land unit) nor yard of land nor even — it is a shame to tell though it seemed to him no shame to do — an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine that was left that was not set down in his writing."

"Domesday Book" created, however, a detailed portrait of a feudal kingdom that is invaluable today to geographers, genealogists and historians.

Considering that roadless England was emerging from primeval forests and that reading and writing were rare skills, the survey was a remarkable feat. No comparable contemporary record exists in Europe.

Adventists' Life Seen As Key To Healthier Hearts

NEW YORK (AP) — Live the simple life—as do the Seventh-Day Adventists — and your chances are much better for a healthier heart, says a medical professor.

The American College of Cardiology heard the findings of Dr. Richard Walden, assistant professor of preventive medicine at the College of Medical Evangelists, an Adventist institution in Loma Linda, Calif.

In a comparative study, Walden said Wednesday, Adventist menfolk suffered 40 per cent fewer diseased heart arteries than the general public. And their blood cholesterol, he added, was 15 per cent lower than the other groups —selected at random in New York and Philadelphia.

Not only do Adventists refuse all tobacco, alcohol or coffee, Walden noted, but about half the sect's 1.6 million members are strict vegetarians.

Cholesterol is the substance believed to play an important part in causing coronary heart disease.

2-Way Radio Systems Aired By County Firemen's Group

Various types of two-way radio hookups were outlined by Donald Todd, a radio communications representative for Motorola Electronics, Inc., at a meeting of the Columbiana County Firemen's Association Wednesday night at Firestone Park at Columbiana.

The association has proposed that a countywide fire department network be set up. By 1963, all fire departments must be on their own frequency, away from those operated by police departments. Presently, many departments utilize the police bands.

If all the departments can be put on the same frequency and a countywide mutual aid program is established, all would be in constant contact with one another in case of a fire or other emergency.

The association also feels that the departments can obtain better and cheaper service if the equipment is standardized.

George Boston, chief of the Washingtonville department and deputy state fire marshal, reported on the mutual aid committee he heads.

The fire prevention committee reported it will meet next Tuesday night at East Palestine to discuss setting up a countywide program for all departments. Glenn Libert, East Palestine chief, is chairman.

Three new departments were accepted as members — Damascus, Winona-Butler Township and Rogers. Only one or two departments in the county are not enrolled.

Sixty were present. Chief Robert Lewis of Wellsville, president, conducted business.

A team of four doctors from the Youngstown Area Heart Association will demonstrate and explain closed chest massage at the meeting June 21.

Farmers Cautioned On Hail Area Planting

Hancock County growers participating in the 1961 feed grain program should be careful about replanting "hailed out" cropland with either grain sorghum or corn, C. C. Herron of Pughtown, chairman of the County Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

The chairman cautioned program co-operators that they have a "permitted acreage" for corn and grain sorghum on their farms, and any plantings in excess of this will result in noncompliance with the feed grain program.

If the planting of grain sorghum or corn on land where the original crop was destroyed by a hailstorm increases the farm's total acreage of corn and grain sorghum to more than the permitted acreage, the farmer would not be in compliance with the feed grain program, Herron said.

Had Been Abandoned

3 Bunnies Find Haven

Meet Alvin, Simon and Theodore — not the famous songsters of the animal kingdom — but three tiny rabbits that have been adopted temporarily by a city family.

Found in the front yard of their home when only a few hours old, the bunnies are thriving on a formula of evaporated milk, water and syrup at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Skeens, 801 Morton St.

They were apparently abandoned by the mother rabbit when frightened by a dog although no nest was found in the vicinity.

Rather than let them perish for lack of food or warmth, the couple' daughter, Barbara, 6, brought them indoors for protection.

Mrs. Skeens has fashioned a home for the frisky trio in a toy nurse's kit packed with grass, and provides nourishment on a four-hour scheduled, using a baby bottle and medicine dropper for feeding.

The rabbits are the survivors of a litter of five. One had already died when the youngster found them, and another died Tuesday night.

"We've really become attached to them," Mrs. Skeens said. "My daughter is just too tenderhearted to see them die or be killed by a cat or other animal."

Now five-days "old," the rabbits have shown rapid signs of development and have grown soft coats of brown fur. When more fully developed, they will be turned loose in the woods.

No, they haven't shown talent at singing even though named after the famous chipmunks!

Farmers Cautioned On Hail Area Planting

Hancock County growers participating in the 1961 feed grain program should be careful about replanting "hailed out" cropland with either grain sorghum or corn, C. C. Herron of Pughtown, chairman of the County Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

The chairman cautioned program co-operators that they have a "permitted acreage" for corn and grain sorghum on their farms, and any plantings in excess of this will result in noncompliance with the feed grain program.

If the planting of grain sorghum or corn on land where the original crop was destroyed by a hailstorm increases the farm's total acreage of corn and grain sorghum to more than the permitted acreage, the farmer would not be in compliance with the feed grain program, Herron said.

Had Been Abandoned

3 Bunnies Find Haven

Meet Alvin, Simon and Theodore — not the famous songsters of the animal kingdom — but three tiny rabbits that have been adopted temporarily by a city family.

Found in the front yard of their home when only a few hours old, the bunnies are thriving on a formula of evaporated milk, water and syrup at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Skeens, 801 Morton St.

They were apparently abandoned by the mother rabbit when frightened by a dog although no nest was found in the vicinity.

Rather than let them perish for lack of food or warmth, the couple' daughter, Barbara, 6, brought them indoors for protection.

Mrs. Skeens has fashioned a home for the frisky trio in a toy nurse's kit packed with grass, and provides nourishment on a four-hour scheduled, using a baby bottle and medicine dropper for feeding.

The rabbits are the survivors of a litter of five. One had already died when the youngster found them, and another died Tuesday night.

Norma Jean Hawthorne, Seaman R. O. Bolland Wed

Miss Norma Jean Hawthorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hawthorne of Ohio View, became the bride of Radar Seaman Ronald O. Bolland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bolland of Midland View, Saturday evening in the First Presbyterian Church in Midland.

The Rev. George Bohlender, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and ferns and lighted by two seven-branch candelabra.

Miss Vivian Jacobs of Midland was organist and Mrs. William Duck of Ohio View, vocal soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor - length frock of silk organza, featuring princess lines with an empire bodice and scooped neckline enhanced with Swiss guipure embroidery, which also trimmed the bracelet sleeves. Inverted pleats added to the fullness of the bouffant skirt ending in a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of sheer illusion was gathered to a wreath of waxed orange blossoms accented by a spray of seed pearls.

A white orchid, centered in stephanotis and streamers, topped the white Bible she carried. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, given her by the bridegroom. All the familiar traditions were followed. She carried a handkerchief given her by Mrs. Earl Davis of Midland.

Miss Gloria Anne Gengarella of Midland, maid of honor, wore a bouffant gown of white dotted nylon over turquoise taffeta with a fitted bodice of ban lace. The full, gathered skirt was accented by a streamered back-bow of turquoise ribbon. A turquoise, shirred organza crown held her nose veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and blue streamers.

Donna Creese of Vanport was bridesmaid and Connie Hawthorne, sister of the bride, and Janie McCombs, cousin of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their attire was identical to that of the maid of honor and they carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations and white streamers.

Debbie Hawthorne, sister of the bride, was flower girl and wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza with an empire waistline accented by a butterfly bow in the back. She wore a miniature picture hat of white horsehair and carried a white basket of white carnations and blue streamers.

MRS. R. O. BOLLAND
Bride Of Midland Nuptials.

Roger Bolland of Midland View, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Donald McConnoughy of Beaver and Robert and Harry Hawthorne of Shippingport, cousins of the bride, were ushers.

Johnny Fantone of Midland was ring bearer.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were white gloves and strings of pearls. The bridegroom's gifts to his attendants were cuff links and to the ring bearer, a watch.

The couple, both graduates of Midland High School, are honeymooning in Washington. The bride chose a beige plaid suit with beige accessories for travel. She will reside with her parents while her husband continues his tour of duty in Norfolk, Va.

A reception was held in the Industry fire hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with pink and white carnations and flanked with white tapers in milkglass. The memory candle was a gift from the bride's aunt, Mrs. Robert Hays of Beaver.

Aides at the reception were Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Art Brown, Mrs. Louis Phillips and Mrs. Alan Craft.

Out-of-town guests included, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Green and daughters, Donna Sue and Lavina, of Youngstown, the bridegroom's aunt and uncle, Mrs. Oakey Glenn of Portland, Ore., his great-aunt, and Mr. and Mrs. William Alto and daughters, Carol Sue and Patty, of Petersburg, Va.

Norma Jean Hawthorne, Seaman R. O. Bolland Wed

Miss Norma Jean Hawthorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hawthorne of Ohio View, became the bride of Radar Seaman Ronald O. Bolland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bolland of Midland View, Saturday evening in the First Presbyterian Church in Midland.

The Rev. George Bohlender, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with palms and ferns and lighted by two seven-branch candelabra.

Miss Vivian Jacobs of Midland was organist and Mrs. William Duck of Ohio View, vocal soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor - length frock of silk organza, featuring princess lines with an empire bodice and scooped neckline enhanced with Swiss guipure embroidery, which also trimmed the bracelet sleeves. Inverted pleats added to the fullness of the bouffant skirt ending in a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of sheer illusion was gathered to a wreath of waxed orange blossoms accented by a spray of seed pearls.

A white orchid, centered in stephanotis and streamers, topped the white Bible she carried. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings, given her by the bridegroom. All the familiar traditions were followed. She carried a handkerchief given her by Mrs. Earl Davis of Midland.

Miss Gloria Anne Gengarella of Midland, maid of honor, wore a bouffant gown of white dotted nylon over turquoise taffeta with a fitted bodice of ban lace. The full, gathered skirt was accented by a streamered back-bow of turquoise ribbon. A turquoise, shirred organza crown held her nose veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and blue streamers.

Donna Creese of Vanport was bridesmaid and Connie Hawthorne, sister of the bride, and Janie McCombs, cousin of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Their attire was identical to that of the maid of honor and they carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations and white streamers.

Debbie Hawthorne, sister of the bride, was flower girl and wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza with an empire waistline accented by a butterfly bow in the back. She wore a miniature picture hat of white horsehair and carried a white basket of white carnations and blue streamers.

MRS. R. O. BOLLAND

A reception was held in the Industry fire hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with pink and white carnations and flanked with white tapers in milkglass. The memory candle was a gift from the bride's aunt, Mrs. Robert Hays of Beaver.

Assembly

Cuyahoga, an attorney, offered the amendment.

Those who favored retaining the provision—but lost — say laymen who represent claimants, unlike lawyers, are not subject to any code of ethics and that some engage in claim chasing; that is, soliciting cases.

Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, who won the approval for the shift from just technical institutes to community colleges, said of the workmen's compensation changes:

"There is nothing in this bill to help the injured worker."

Dealing with disability benefits for injured workers and eligibility of their survivors for death benefits, the bill provides among other things that:

The time allowed for filing an occupational disease claim shall be six months (a reduction from the present two-year limit.)

Claims that death occurred later as a result of the injury may be ruled valid if the claimant received temporary total compensation for a year prior to death or if it occurs within four years (medical testimony is the present basis).

Payment is stopped while an employer's appeal is in progress.

Mental health damage as the result of injury is not considered a basis for compensation.

Claimants would be required to submit to examinations by company doctors.

The Senate was in session almost five hours, its second long day in a row. Action was postponed on a companion bill to the junked technical institutes measure and one that would fix part of the blame for sale of alcohol to minors of those youngsters who misrepresent their age or identity.

However, senators passed two other minor bills which will go to the House with the community college and workmen's compensation measures.

Three other measures received final legislative action in the Senate after having been passed by the House earlier. These would:

End the requirement that an appointed county commissioner belong to the same political party as his predecessor.

Allow a polling place to be located in an adjoining precinct.

Require county auditors to keep a separate record of all steps concerned with sale of land sold for delinquent taxes or assessments.

The House considered six bills and defeated two. One of those beaten would have permitted tavern proprietors to use the statement of a minor that he was old enough to be served as defense evidence in a case of illegal sale of beer or liquor. The measure failed by one vote to get the required 70 yeas, and it's considered likely that sponsors will get a lawmaker who voted against it to move for reconsideration.

The bill bypassed by the Senate was similar, and the Senate took postponement action after learning of the House vote.

The Senate's surprise decision on the community college bill followed lengthy caucuses by both parties. The decision came over the objections of Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, whose Education Committee ditched the bill in March. Pepple then had introduced the two substitute measure which were on Wednesday's calendar.

The original bill closely followed conclusions of a two-year study by an Interim Commission on Education Beyond the High School. As approved Wednesday, it would allow citizens of an area composed of one or more adjoining counties —minimum population 50,000—to establish community colleges offering academic or technical courses.

Financing would be divided among the community (tax levy), state (operating funds) and students (fees). A board appointed by the governor would have to approve local arrangements, but the contract to conduct the two-year training program could be with a private, state or municipal university.

However, the wind shifted and the fire got out of control, threatening the electrical lines, he explained. Firemen were called to quell the flames and then stood by in event the fire got out of control.

Fraternity Loan Set

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Federal Housing Administration has approved a $1.5 million federal loan for a fraternity center at Baldwin-Wallace College. Dr. Alfred B. Bonds Jr., college president, said the center will permit all fraternity members to live together.

Assembly

Cuyahoga, an attorney, offered the amendment.

Those who favored retaining the provision—but lost — say laymen who represent claimants, unlike lawyers, are not subject to any code of ethics and that some engage in claim chasing; that is, soliciting cases.

Senate Minority Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, who won the approval for the shift from just technical institutes to community colleges, said of the workmen's compensation changes:

"There is nothing in this bill to help the injured worker."

Dealing with disability benefits for injured workers and eligibility of their survivors for death benefits, the bill provides among other things that:

The time allowed for filing an occupational disease claim shall be six months (a reduction from the present two-year limit.)

Claims that death occurred later as a result of the injury may be ruled valid if the claimant received temporary total compensation for a year prior to death or if it occurs within four years (medical testimony is the present basis).

Payment is stopped while an employer's appeal is in progress.

Mental health damage as the result of injury is not considered a basis for compensation.

Claimants would be required to submit to examinations by company doctors.

The Senate was in session almost five hours, its second long day in a row. Action was postponed on a companion bill to the junked technical institutes measure and one that would fix part of the blame for sale of alcohol to minors of those youngsters who misrepresent their age or identity.

However, senators passed two other minor bills which will go to the House with the community college and workmen's compensation measures.

Three other measures received final legislative action in the Senate after having been passed by the House earlier. These would:

End the requirement that an appointed county commissioner belong to the same political party as his predecessor.

Allow a polling place to be located in an adjoining precinct.

Require county auditors to keep a separate record of all steps concerned with sale of land sold for delinquent taxes or assessments.

The House considered six bills and defeated two. One of those beaten would have permitted tavern proprietors to use the statement of a minor that he was old enough to be served as defense evidence in a case of illegal sale of beer or liquor. The measure failed by one vote to get the required 70 yeas, and it's considered likely that sponsors will get a lawmaker who voted against it to move for reconsideration.

The bill bypassed by the Senate was similar, and the Senate took postponement action after learning of the House vote.

The Senate's surprise decision on the community college bill followed lengthy caucuses by both parties. The decision came over the objections of Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, whose Education Committee ditched the bill in March. Pepple then had introduced the two substitute measure which were on Wednesday's calendar.

The original bill closely followed conclusions of a two-year study by an Interim Commission on Education Beyond the High School. As approved Wednesday, it would allow citizens of an area composed of one or more adjoining counties —minimum population 50,000—to establish community colleges offering academic or technical courses.

Financing would be divided among the community (tax levy), state (operating funds) and students (fees). A board appointed by the governor would have to approve local arrangements, but the contract to conduct the two-year training program could be with a private, state or municipal university.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Fats Should Be Curbed In The Kitchen

If your husband's lean look is long gone, tune in.

For men the pattern of weight increase is most rapid in their '20s and '30s. Our heroine yesterday's story runs true to form. As a young man he was athletic and inclined to be too thin. In the happy years that followed, his sedentary occupation and his wife's good cooking brought his weight from 120 to 180 pounds at age 39. He is just under 5 feet 9 tall.

Ida Jean Kain

In the interest of health he 'gave' his wife this unique birthday present. . .the written promise to take off 20 pounds at the approximate rate of 5 pounds per month.

Homemakers, take the lead. If the doctor has advised the head of your house to pare down, start cooking with fewer calories. Trim calories in the kitchen and chances are you won't have to emphasize the word 'diet.'

—:—

THE AIM IS not only to reduce his weight but to bring about a natural change in food habits that will result in permanent weight control. As the doctor will tell you, it is of paramount importance to keep the pounds off once they are lost.

Fats boost the calories because they are the most concentrated fuel, so the first rule is to trim fats all along the line. While more research is needed, animal fats are suspect as a factor in the high incidence of heart disease. On the other hand, unsaturated fats, such as those furnished in vegetable oils, provide fatty acids that are essential in the diet.

Here are some practical plans for lessening dietary fats. Choose lean and less expensive cuts of meat rather than prime grade. Meat, fish, and poultry should be broiled, roasted, simmered, or rotisseried instead of fried. Or use one of those new fry-pans that require no cooking fat.

To defat gravies, refrigerate drippings to make it easier to remove fat. Cook vegetables quickly for most flavor and you won't need to add sauces or butter. Routinely lessen the amount of fat in preparing food.

Whenever feasible use oil, but on the reducing score, bear in mind that all fats are high in calories. Skim milk powder is a boon to low calorie cooking in sauces, soups, and desserts.

One important tip: while he's re-training his appetite and lessening his food capacity, do not leave serving dishes directly in front of his plate.

—:—

TEMPTATION is too near. Put the emphasis on eating to reduce and control weight, not on diet. It's amazing how appetite does cut back after a few weeks of this way of eating.

As a reward system, plan for a moderate serving of his favorite dessert once a week.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "Revised Calorie Chart" and "Mr. and Mrs. Reducing Plan." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Anderson Seen Choice For High Naval Office

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy speculation about who will be tapped as the new chief of naval operations focused today on Vice Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., dynamic commander of the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The White House is expected to act soon to nominate a replacement for Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, whose third two-year term as CNO expires Aug. 1.

Speculation also centered on Adm. James S. Russell, Burke's second in command, and Vice Adm. John T. Hayward, the Navy development chief.

Another possibility is Adm. Harry D. Felt, peppery commander of the 7th Fleet and chief of all U.S. military and naval operations in the Pacific. But with Southeast Asia, and now Korea, in crisis, it was thought Felt would be left where he is.

Some Navy sources said the "smart money" was on Anderson, 54, a tall handsome aviator who, since the fall of 1959, has directed the powerful fleet units patrolling waters near the volatile Middle East.

Brooklyn-born Anderson has been a career officer for nearly 34 years. An Annapolis product, he is described as an athletic type, about 6 feet 2 with piercing blue eyes and iron-gray hair.

Some of Anderson's former associates said he long has been marked for big things—they note he became a vice admiral at 50, one of the youngest men to reach three-star Navy rank.

Defense Under Way In Ratterman's Case

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Defense witnesses for George Ratterman are expected to take the stand this morning in the second day of the vice trial of the reform candidate for sheriff of Campbell County.

Ratterman, 39, a Cincinnati investment counselor and father of eight, has not testified so far.

His attorney, Henry J. Cook, told Judge Joseph Rolf of Newport police court Wednesday that he would try to prove his client was framed. The first day of Ratterman's trial was marked by heated exchanges between Cook and City Attorney Thomas Hirschfeld who contended defense questioning dealt with irrelevant matters.

Cook told Judge Rolf he would try to prove Ratterman's frame-up was planned shortly after the former Cleveland Browns quarterback announced his candidacy for sheriff.

Ratterman was arrested early May 9 at the Glenn Hotel in the company of stripteaser Juanita Jean Hodges, 26, Houston, Tex., who dances under the name April Flowers.

He is charged with breach of peace, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct, but contends he was drugged, framed and that the arresting detectives tore off his trousers.

Defense Under Way In Ratterman's Case

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Defense witnesses for George Ratterman are expected to take the stand this morning in the second day of the vice trial of the reform candidate for sheriff of Campbell County.

Ratterman, 39, a Cincinnati investment counselor and father of eight, has not testified so far.

His attorney, Henry J. Cook, told Judge Joseph Rolf of Newport police court Wednesday that he would try to prove his client was framed. The first day of Ratterman's trial was marked by heated exchanges between Cook and City Attorney Thomas Hirschfeld who contended defense questioning dealt with irrelevant matters.

Cook told Judge Rolf he would try to prove Ratterman's frame-up was planned shortly after the former Cleveland Browns quarterback announced his candidacy for sheriff.

Ratterman was arrested early May 9 at the Glenn Hotel in the company of stripteaser Juanita Jean Hodges, 26, Houston, Tex., who dances under the name April Flowers.

He is charged with breach of peace, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct, but contends he was drugged, framed and that the arresting detectives tore off his trousers.

Dodgers 'Walk Home' To Nip Braves And Spahn, 2-1, In 11

Bucs Outlast Cards, 4-3

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers onec more beat Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's superb southpaw, as they defeated the Braves 2-1 Wednesday night on a bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning. That left the Dodgers in a virtual second place tie with Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, all three games behind San Francisco in the National League race.

The Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 with two ninth-inning runs, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 4-3 and Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 2-1.

Spahn (4-3), who hasn't beaten the Dodgers in their own park in 13 years, walked four, struck out seven and allowed nine hits. He had them shut out on five hits until Norm Sherry, playing his first game since April 20 because of injury, hit a home run leading off the seventh inning.

The Dodgers didn't get another hit until the 11th, but it was a leadoff triple by Frank Howard and chased Spahn. Moe Drabowsky relieved and intentionally walked two men, loading the bases. Then Seth Morehead came on for the Braves, and after striking out pinch hitter Bob Aspromonte, he walked pinch hitter Bob Lillis on a 3-2 pitch, forcing in the tie-breaking run.

The Giants, out-hit 13-5, put away their eighth one-run decision among their 20 victories in the same fashion as the Dodgers —when losing reliever Don Elston (5-2) of the Cubs walked pinch hitter Jim Marshall with the bases full.

Smoky Burgess drove in three of the Pirates' runs, bringing home the clincher with a two-run double in the fifth off Ernie Broglio of the Cards. Wilmer Mizell (3-1) won it.

The Reds had just three hits, all off John Buzhardt (0-4), but paired two of them with a walk and Vada Pinson's sacrifice fly for both runs in the third inning. Frank Robinson's double brought in the deciding run. Bob Purkey (4-1) won it.

Ken Cunningham Will Attend Cincinnati U.

Accepts Four-Year Scholarship

The offers have been weighed and the decision made. Kenny Cunningham, East Liverpool's player-of-the-year in Ohio basketball for the 1960-61 season, has accepted a full four - year athletic scholarship to the University of Cincinnati.

Coach Ed Jucker, who guided Cincinnati's forces to the NCAA championship in March by upsetting powerful Ohio State, was in East Liverpool Wednesday night to officially offer Cunningham the basketball scholarship.

"In Cunningham we are getting an outstanding basketball player and a real gentleman," Jucker said.

Cunningham's decision came after many offers from other schools around the nation. By attending Cincinnati on a basketball scholarship, Cunningham will give up football. Jucker said the school would attempt to work out a basketball and baseball plan for Cunningham. The Potter star is a pitcher and infielder in baseball.

As a football star at East Liverpool, Cunningham smashed passing records, going over 1,000 yards in the air, and was named to the first team All-Ohio on defense and the second offensive team.

He was everybody's All-Ohio in basketball, being named player-of-the-year by the Associated Press and honorary team captain for the 1960-61 season, along with being placed on the first United Press International squad.

Cunningham is small as basketball players go these days, standing about 6-foot even. Jucker said "of course we like a big man, but we have to have those backcourt men to run the team".

The Bearcat coach said he only picks three to five boys each year.

Cunningham has been a regular on the Potter varsity since his sophomore year and during his three-year tenure scored 1,124 points to be the first East Liverpool player ever to shatter the 1,000-point mark during a high school career.

Accorded honorable mention honors his sophomore and junior seasons, Cunningham wound up his varsity career by scoring 461 points during his past season for an average of 24.2 per game.

He broke every existing record at East Liverpool High School. His 41 points against Toronto on Feb. 10 smashed an individual school scoring mark which had stood for 48 years.

Six times in the 1960-61 season, Cunningham scored 30 or more points.

His total of 461 points this season included only one tournament game, since the Potters were eliminated by Steubenville Central.

During his junior season, the Potter sharpshooter, who used a deadly jump for his assaults on the record books, scored 360 points and led the team in scoring as a sophomore with 303 markers in 20 games.

Owens To Rejoin Philadelphia Club

JIM OWENS
Will Return To Baseball.

Jim Owens said today at Midland that he will rejoin the Philadelphia Phillies.

Owens, a week ago in an interview, vowed he never would return to the club, but since it seemed obvious that he was going to lose out in any waiting game and also lose a year's pay, probably about $9,000, he has changed his mind.

In March, Owens left the spring training camp at Clearwater, Fla. Since then he has been living in Midland with his wife and children and working out daily at Crucible Field.

General Manager John Quinn of the Phillies said the club has had offers for the 27-year-old right-hander, "but nothing that would interest us."

"He's coming back like any other player under contract and he'll fit into our plans depending on what the situation calls for," Quinn declared.

Use of Owens as either a starter or reliever will be strictly up to Manager Gene Mauch, the general manager said.

Owens quit the club March 10 in spring training after a tiff with Quinn. In asserting he never would rejoin the Phillies, he said he just didn't fit into their plans and that he was a starter, not a reliever and that's the way it was going to be.

Owens will report Saturday to the Phils' farm club at Williamsport, where he will spend a week working out, then go on to the parent club.

Cardinals' Play Stirs Sharp Blast

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—General Manager Bing Devine says of his tailspinning St. Louis Cardinals: "We're playing bad baseball."

Statistics seem to bear him out, and never was it better illustrated than in Wednesday night's 4-3 loss to the Pirates at Pittsburgh.

In the last inning, the Cards got the potential winning run on base when pinch hitter Red Schoendienst singled and Julian Javier beat out a bunt with none out.

But it all went for nothing when Joe Cunningham went out on a pop fly, pinch hitter Mickey McDermott flied out, and Ken Boyer forced Javier.

After the game, Manager Solly Hemus called a closed-door meeting of the team. A player, who asked not to be identified, said later, "Hemus really chewed us out."

The big gun for the Cards was old dependable Stan Musial. He banged three singles and drove in one run.

"So far," said Devine, "our strategy has proven wrong. If the pattern continues, I'd have to accept responsibility, but I will not absolve some guys who are not contributing to the club."

He undoubtedly meant Boyer, the Redbirds' No. 1 run producer the past three seasons who has not driven in a single run in this road trip; Bill White, who has fallen to .224; and onetime ace reliever Lindy McDaniel, who so far this year has proven ineffective.

Carry Back Eyes 2nd Leg Saturday

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Carry Back will be bucking bigger odds Saturday than the Preakness betting board shows because of winning the Kentucky Derby.

He's figured today to be around a 6-5 favorite against the seven other 3-year-olds listed as probable entries. His Derby victory May 6 goes a long way in shaping the calculation.

But in the background lurks the records showing Derby winners of the recent past aren't such good bets in the Preakness.

Since 1945, 11 have tried, and only three succeeded in taking the first two legs of the triple crown. On the other hand, seven colts who finished second in the Derby during the same 15 years came to Baltimore and copped the Preakness.

Crozier's backers should take heart from this. He lost the Derby by less than a length to Carry Back. That was a mile and quarter race. The Preakness distance is a sixteenth shorter.

Besides Crozier, Dr. Miller, Sherluck and Globemaster will be trying to do in the Preakness what they couldn't in the Derby against Carry Back. The newcomers to the triple crown circuit which ends June 3 at Belmont, are Hitting Away, Crimson Fury and Orleans Doge.

Jack Price, trainer and breeder of Carry Back, is especially anxious to win the Preakness. If he doesn't, he won't have even a chance at the Belmont.

He promised a long time ago to run Carry Back in the Jersey Derby which is only four days before the Belmont's grueling mile and a half. Price's New Jersey commitment will be forgotten if Carry Back can take the Preakness, so he may have a shot at becoming the first triple crown winner since Citation in 1948.

The only colt since then to win the first two legs was Tim Tam, who finished second in the Belmont in 1958.

Charleston Gets Back Into Game

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Charleston was back in organized baseball today, and the city could give Cuban Premier Fidel Castro some of the credit.

International League President Tommy Richardson came to town Wednesday night to confirm that the San Juan, Puerto Rico, club owned by millionaire William P. MacDonald would be transferred here.

Charleston will open a three-game series Friday here with Jersey City at Watt Powell Park, which seats about 5,800.

"We had an unusual economic situation down there," Richardson said in explaining why the club would be shifted from the island to this mountain community.

He said the Cuban troubles, and particularly the recent ill-fated invasion, has caused unrest and those fleeing from that island to Puerto Rico had created some economic hardships.

"The people just didn't have the money to go to the ball games," he said.

Wednesday night, MacDonald and General Manager Joe Ryan said "internal pressure brought by member clubs and outside influences are forcing us to move."

BOB KIGGANS
Wellsville Ace To Attend The Citadel.

Bob Kiggans, second - highest all-time point producer in basketball at Wellsville and an outstanding end in football and high jumper in track, has accepted a full four-year athletic scholarship to The Citadel at Charleston, S.C.

Kiggans said he will concentrate his efforts on basketball and track at the military school and pass up football.

The 18-year-old athlete also finished near the top of his graduating class. He tied for sixth honors.

The scholarship was signed by Edward L. Teague Jr., athletic director, and enclosed was a letter from Gen. Mark Clark, president of The Citadel.

Upon graduation from the South Carolina school, Kiggans will be commissioned second lieutenant in the Army.

Kiggans broke into the varsity basketball lineup as a freshman during the 1957-58 season and has been a regular since.

His four-year point total was 1,119, second only to Dan Baldwin, who scored 1,155. Kiggans tallied 69 points as a freshman, 266 his sophomore season, 348 as a junior and 436 last season.

He paced Wellsville to the Sectional championship this past season and gained all-Ohio honorable mention in basketball.

Kiggans played end and quarterback on the Tiger football team. A fine pass receiver, he caught 22 passes, scored two touchdowns and tallied 28 points his senior year.

In track, he has been a polished high jumper for the past two seasons. Kiggans tied for first in the high jump at the 1960 county meet and won it outright this year with a leap of 5-feet-9½.

Kiggans will be attending a school which is a member of the Southern Conference. Mel Thompson is basketball coach at The Citadel.

William & Mary also made Kiggans a handsome offer last week but he chose The Citadel.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Kiggans of 1604 Chester St., Wellsville.

Dodgers 'Walk Home' To Nip Braves And Spahn, 2-1, In 11

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers onec more beat Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's superb southpaw, as they defeated the Braves 2-1 Wednesday night on a bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning. That left the Dodgers in a virtual second place tie with Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, all three games behind San Francisco in the National League race.

The Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 with two ninth-inning runs, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 4-3 and Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 2-1.

Spahn (4-3), who hasn't beaten the Dodgers in their own park in 13 years, walked four, struck out seven and allowed nine hits. He had them shut out on five hits until Norm Sherry, playing his first game since April 20 because of injury, hit a home run leading off the seventh inning.

The Dodgers didn't get another hit until the 11th, but it was a leadoff triple by Frank Howard and chased Spahn. Moe Drabowsky relieved and intentionally walked two men, loading the bases. Then Seth Morehead came on for the Braves, and after striking out pinch hitter Bob Aspromonte, he walked pinch hitter Bob Lillis on a 3-2 pitch, forcing in the tie-breaking run.

The Giants, out-hit 13-5, put away their eighth one-run decision among their 20 victories in the same fashion as the Dodgers —when losing reliever Don Elston (5-2) of the Cubs walked pinch hitter Jim Marshall with the bases full.

Smoky Burgess drove in three of the Pirates' runs, bringing home the clincher with a two-run double in the fifth off Ernie Broglio of the Cards. Wilmer Mizell (3-1) won it.

The Reds had just three hits, all off John Buzhardt (0-4), but paired two of them with a walk and Vada Pinson's sacrifice fly for both runs in the third inning. Frank Robinson's double brought in the deciding run. Bob Purkey (4-1) won it.

Bucs Outlast Cards, 4-3

Ken Cunningham Will Attend Cincinnati U.

Accepts Four-Year Scholarship

The offers have been weighed and the decision made. Kenny Cunningham, East Liverpool's player-of-the-year in Ohio basketball for the 1960-61 season, has accepted a full four - year athletic scholarship to the University of Cincinnati.

Coach Ed Jucker, who guided Cincinnati's forces to the NCAA championship in March by upsetting powerful Ohio State, was in East Liverpool Wednesday night to officially offer Cunningham the basketball scholarship.

"In Cunningham we are getting an outstanding basketball player and a real gentleman," Jucker said.

Cunningham's decision came after many offers from other schools around the nation. By attending Cincinnati on a basketball scholarship, Cunningham will give up football. Jucker said the school would attempt to work out a basketball and baseball plan for Cunningham. The Potter star is a pitcher and infielder in baseball.

As a football star at East Liverpool, Cunningham smashed passing records, going over 1,000 yards in the air, and was named to the first team All-Ohio on defense and the second offensive team.

He was everybody's All-Ohio in basketball, being named player-of-the-year by the Associated Press and honorary team captain for the 1960-61 season, along with being placed on the first United Press International squad.

Cunningham is small as basketball players go these days, standing about 6-foot even. Jucker said "of course we like a big man, but we have to have those backcourt men to run the team".

The Bearcat coach said he only picks three to five boys each year.

Cunningham has been a regular on the Potter varsity since his sophomore year and during his three-year tenure scored 1,124 points to be the first East Liverpool player ever to shatter the 1,000-point mark during a high school career.

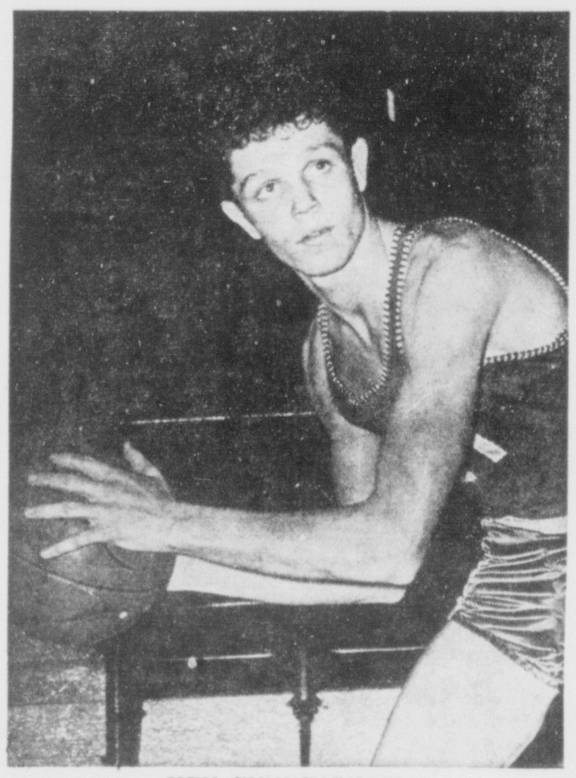
Accorded honorable mention honors his sophomore and junior seasons, Cunningham wound up his varsity career by scoring 461 points during his past season for an average of 24.2 per game.

He broke every existing record at East Liverpool High School. His 41 points against Toronto on Feb. 10 smashed an individual school scoring mark which had stood for 48 years.

Six times in the 1960-61 season, Cunningham scored 30 or more points.

His total of 461 points this season included only one tournament game, since the Potters were eliminated by Steubenville Central.

During his junior season, the Potter sharpshooter, who used a deadly jump for his assaults on the record books, scored 360 points and led the team in scoring as a sophomore with 303 markers in 20 games.



KEN CUNNINGHAM
Will Enroll At Cincinnati In September.

Owens To Rejoin Philadelphia Club

JIM OWENS
Will Return To Baseball.

Jim Owens said today at Midland that he will rejoin the Philadelphia Phillies.

Owens, a week ago in an interview, vowed he never would return to the club, but since it seemed obvious that he was going to lose out in any waiting game and also lose a year's pay, probably about $9,000, he has changed his mind.

In March, Owens left the spring training camp at Clearwater, Fla. Since then he has been living in Midland with his wife and children and working out daily at Crucible Field.

General Manager John Quinn of the Phillies said the club has had offers for the 27-year-old right-hander, "but nothing that would interest us."

"He's coming back like any other player under contract and he'll fit into our plans depending on what the situation calls for," Quinn declared.

Use of Owens as either a starter or reliever will be strictly up to Manager Gene Mauch, the general manager said.

Owens quit the club March 10 in spring training after a tiff with Quinn. In asserting he never would rejoin the Phillies, he said he just didn't fit into their plans and that he was a starter, not a reliever and that's the way it was going to be.

Kiggans Accepts 4-Year Offer From The Citadel

Bob Kiggans, second - highest all-time point producer in basketball at Wellsville and an outstanding end in football and high jumper in track, has accepted a full four-year athletic scholarship to The Citadel at Charleston, S.C.

Kiggans said he will concentrate his efforts on basketball and track at the military school and pass up football.

The 18-year-old athlete also finished near the top of his graduating class. He tied for sixth honors.

The scholarship was signed by Edward L. Teague Jr., athletic director, and enclosed was a letter from Gen. Mark Clark, president of The Citadel.

Upon graduation from the South Carolina school, Kiggans will be commissioned second lieutenant in the Army.

Kiggans broke into the varsity basketball lineup as a freshman during the 1957-58 season and has been a regular since.

His four-year point total was 1,119, second only to Dan Baldwin, who scored 1,155. Kiggans tallied 69 points as a freshman, 266 his sophomore season, 348 as a junior and 436 last season.

He paced Wellsville to the Sectional championship this past season and gained all-Ohio honorable mention in basketball.

Kiggans played end and quarterback on the Tiger football team. A fine pass receiver, he caught 22 passes, scored two touchdowns and tallied 28 points his senior year.

In track, he has been a polished high jumper for the past two seasons. Kiggans tied for first in the high jump at the 1960 county meet and won it outright this year with a leap of 5-feet-9½.

Kiggans will be attending a school which is a member of the Southern Conference. Mel Thompson is basketball coach at The Citadel.

William & Mary also made Kiggans a handsome offer last week but he chose The Citadel.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Kiggans of 1604 Chester St., Wellsville.

Locke, Latman Outduel Monbo In 1-0 Win Over Red Sox

Power Gets Lone Run On Double Play

BOSTON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, who seem to alternate good pitching and lusty hitting—both hardly ever coming in the same game—owe their latest victory to two pitchers who were preseason question marks, and the keen deductive powers of Manager Jimmie Dykes.

Bobby Locke, who got credit for Wednesday's 1-0 win over the Red Sox, had to pitch well, as he faced Boston's most consistent winner, Bill Monbouquette. Monbo lived up to his reputation, but Cleveland made the most of its six hits.

It was the second shutout by Cleveland pitchers this year—both by 1-0 scores.

Locke went into the game with an 0-0 record, but carried the Indians' highest earned run average —7.94 in 5 2-3 innings. That fact, plus the questionable physical condition of his arm, seemed to make things a bit uncertain for Cleveland.

But he was more than adequate for 6 2-3 innings. He struck out two, walked two and scattered six hits.

Dykes yanked Locke in the seventh after he walked Chuck Schilling on four straight pitches.

"I thought something must be wrong," said Dykes in the clubhouse after the game. "Locke doesn't walk a guy on four straight pitches. And I was right. Locke said his arm was okay, but that he couldn't get anything on the ball."

Barry Latman took over and put a high polish on the day's mound performances. He pitched hitless ball the remaining 2 2-3 innings.

Latman's excellent relief job—his third straight—raised the question of whether he is headed for a regular starting assignment.

"He'll get spot starts and he'll be moved up if one of the boys in our regular rotation falters," said Dykes.

Vic Power scored Cleveland's run and he was safe at home by an eyelash. He scored on a double play that almost turned into a triple play.

Power led off the fifth inning with a double and took third on Willie Kirkland's single. John Romano then bounced to Frank Malzone and the third baseman started an around-the-horn double play. Power broke for home and just beat first baseman Pete Runnels' throw to the catcher.

The Sox protested the safe call vehemently.

Cleveland plays an exhibition game at Cincinnati tonight before starting a two-game home series against the New York Yankees Friday night.

Salineville Band Boosters Elect

SALINEVILLE — Mrs. Verla Detchon was elected president of the Salineville Band Boosters at a meeting Tuesday night at the high school. She succeeds Mrs. Kathleen Griffith.

Others elected were Mrs. Janice Brothers, vice president; Mrs. Mary Jarvis, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Kerr, treasurer.

The group endorsed tentative plans for the school band to participate in a summer band camp Aug. 21-26 with Carrollton and Malvern high school bands at Camp Muskingum. Students would have to pay $13, Charles Temple, director, said.

Plans were discussed for a summer festival and for serving the annual alumni banquet May 29. About 15 attended.

Regional Crown Won By Cincinnati Elder

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Elder's perennial state high school baseball champions won their fifth consecutive southwestern Ohio regional title Wednesday night and advanced to the May 26-27 Columbus finals and a chance to win their fourth straight Class AA crown.

The Panthers edged Dayton Meadowdale 3-2 and then crushed Harrison 12-0 to take the regional championship. In the first game of the tripleheader at Crosley Field, Harrison had downed Northeastern 3-2.

Little League Must Step Up Field Work

The East Liverpool Little League is seeking help from anyone interested in sports to help put the fields in shape prior to the start of the Little League season May 22. The work will be concentrated on the Hilbert Field tonight, Friday and Saturday. Anyone interested can meet at the Travelers Hotel or at Red Montgomery's house at 661 Walnut at 6 p. m. Rakes and hammers will be needed.

Tigers Open 5-Game Bulge By Sweeping Orioles

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten right-hander Phil Regan won his fourth with a six-hitter Wednesday night as the Detroit Tigers completed a three-game sweep at Baltimore with a 9-1 victory. That gave Detroit a five-game bulge, largest of the season, in the American League after Washington knocked off second place New York 8-7.

Cleveland defeated Boston 1-0 in the only other AL game scheduled.

Regan, who was 0-4 as a rookie in 17 games last season, walked just one man and struck out three. He lost a shutout in the fourth inning when Brooks Robinson hammered a home run for a 16-game hitting streak.

The Tigers clubbed the Orioles to their fifth straight defeat with 15 hits, two by Al Kaline, who had a triple and a double and drove in three runs. Kaline's triple broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth against loser Jack Fisher (1-4).

Washington built an 8-1 lead against the Yankees with Dale Long's two-run double supplying the final cushion in the seventh inning. Starter Art Ditmar (2-2) was the loser. Left-hander Pete Burnside (1-2) won his first with relief help.

A pair of right-handers, Bobby Locke and Barry Latman, combined for a six-hit shutout for the Indians at Boston. Latman locked it up with 2 1-3 innings of hitless relief when Locke (1-0) gave way because of arm trouble in the seventh.

Top Negley, 9-2, For Second

Cox-Merchants Take Over 1st Place In County Loop

The East Liverpool entry in the County-City League — Cox - Merchants—was resting in first place today after handing Negley a 9-2 setback Wednesday at Negley.

While the Merchants were gaining their second win in two starts, East Palestine belted Columbiana, 10-0, and Salem scored a 10-4 victory over Leetonia.

This left East Liverpool with a 2-0 mark, while four teams are tied with 1-1 records. Leetonia is 0-2.

Righthander Jim Dickey chalked up his first victory of the season. As the starting hurler, he pitched four innings, then gave way to lefthander Jim Burkes. Between them they allowed only six hits.

The Merchants exploded for 10 hits, including a four-for-four night by Hobbs which included three singles and a double.

Varsity Awards Presented

120 At Dinner Honoring Stanton Local Athletes

An amusing talk by Al DeLuca, head football coach at St. Vincent College, and the presentation of 21 varsity letters and seven reserve awards highlighted the annual All-Sports banquet for Stanton Local athletes Wednesday night at the school's cafeteria.

Some 120 attended the event, which honored members of the school's football, basketball, baseball and junior high squads.

Stanton's basketball squad under Coach Harry Diehl was cited for its outstanding 19-1 record and for winning the Jefferson County championship. Coach Fred Sims' football squad also compiled a winning season of 6 wins and 4 defeats.

Supt. C. P. Henderson was master of ceremonies and introduced Sims, who presented varsity letters to 16 gridders. Senior players receiving awards were Keith Burgett, David Davis, Wayne Ketchum, Ernest Leedy and Terry Tice; juniors, Charles Allen, Tom Carpenter, Kent Cline, Tom Grafton, Larry Grimm, Bob Mills, Dorman Patterson, Robert Perkins, Curtis Rose and Stanley Wickham. John Pearson was the only sophomore to win a varsity award. Letters also were given to Jeffrey Biacco and Floyd Miner, managers.

Turning to basketball, Diehl spoke briefly about the season and thanked his team for making it such a success. The past season was Diehl's first in coaching.

He presented five varsity letters to John Lutton, a senior, and juniors Mills, Rose, Jim Leedy and Don Spires, who was named to the first Class A All-Ohio team.

Cheerleading awards went to Kay Stewart, Karen Tolson and Bonnie Lawrence. They were presented by Miss Lyda Ann Sinkora, sponsor.

Jay Hamilton, baseball mentor and junior high coach, was introduced. Gifts were presented to each coach by his respective team.

DeLuca, one of the topnotch after-dinner speakers, recalled comical incidents in his coaching career, which extends over 27 years.

He has been head football coach at St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., for the past 12 seasons, owning one unbeaten and untied season which led the Bearcats into the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., in 1949.

DeLucas was introduced by Supt. Henderson.

Berhar Hurls 2-Hitter In Beavers' 2-1 Win

The victory was Beaver Local's sixth in seven starts. Berhar recorded 10 strikeouts in going the distance.

Ron Ensinger got the Beavers off on the right foot with a two-run homer in the first inning. Salineville scored its lone run in the opening frame.

Ron Giannone was the losing pitcher.

ELHS Golfers Are Shut Out

An East Liverpool golf team suffering from the effects of a minor auto accident was shut out, 8-0, Wednesday by Ursuline High School at Youngstown.

According to Nate Lorah, who was driving the team to Youngstown, a car which he attempted to pass on Route 7 drifted out of its lane and into his car, causing damage to both autos. No one was injured.

Bob Putt and Rick Crable shot 43's for the Potters, while Bob Gilmore added a 46 and Dave Thorne a 53. Jim Taylor of Ursuline captured medalist honors with a 39.

The East Liverpool golfers will compete in the district tournament Saturday at St. Clairsville.

Yesterday's Stars

Hitting — Smoky Burgess, Pirates, drove in three runs in 4-3 victory over the Cards, bringing Bucs from behind with two-run double in the fifth inning.

Pitching—Stan Williams, Dodgers, gave up a dozen walks, but allowed just four hits and struck out 11 in 2-1, 11-inning victory over Braves and Warren Spahn.

Airmen Bigger Now

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Opponents can expect bigger players on future Air Force Academy football and basketbal teams.

For the last three years, no cadet could be taller than 6 feet 6 inches or weigh more than 233. For the new class entering this summer, the limit is 6 feet 8 inches, with no maximum poundage.

71 Golfers Open Bid In Sam Snead Event

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Sam Snead, who collects golf tournament gold with all the zest of a '49er, swung out in quest of his 108th tournament title today against a field of 71 competitors in the 14th annual Sam Snead Festival.

The West Virginia slammer faced opposition from such as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and defending champion Dave Marr, who slipped in with a 15-under 265 last year to win the 72-hole medal play event.

Observers here figured a 265 would be good enough to win again if the weather stays good.

Snead knows his own layout so well that the White Sulphur Springs capitalist has at times toured it in par 70 using nothing more than a tree branch and a putter.

Snead has won the tournament five times. His 259 in 1959 equaled the tournament record set by Ben Hogan in 1950.

But he was more than adequate for 6 2-3 innings. He struck out two, walked two and scattered six hits.

Dykes yanked Locke in the seventh after he walked Chuck Schilling on four straight pitches.

"I thought something must be wrong," said Dykes in the clubhouse after the game. "Locke doesn't walk a guy on four straight pitches. And I was right. Locke said his arm was okay, but that he couldn't get anything on the ball."

Barry Latman took over and put a high polish on the day's mound performances. He pitched hitless ball the remaining 2 2-3 innings.

Latman's excellent relief job—his third straight—raised the question of whether he is headed for a regular starting assignment.

"He'll get spot starts and he'll be moved up if one of the boys in our regular rotation falters," said Dykes.

Vic Power scored Cleveland's run and he was safe at home by an eyelash. He scored on a double play that almost turned into a triple play.

Power led off the fifth inning with a double and took third on Willie Kirkland's single. John Romano then bounced to Frank Malzone and the third baseman started an around-the-horn double play. Power broke for home and just beat first baseman Pete Runnels' throw to the catcher.

The Sox protested the safe call vehemently.

Cleveland plays an exhibition game at Cincinnati tonight before starting a two-game home series against the New York Yankees Friday night.

Tigers Open 5-Game Bulge By Sweeping Orioles

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten right-hander Phil Regan won his fourth with a six-hitter Wednesday night as the Detroit Tigers completed a three-game sweep at Baltimore with a 9-1 victory. That gave Detroit a five-game bulge, largest of the season, in the American League after Washington knocked off second place New York 8-7.

Cleveland defeated Boston 1-0 in the only other AL game scheduled.

Regan, who was 0-4 as a rookie in 17 games last season, walked just one man and struck out three. He lost a shutout in the fourth inning when Brooks Robinson hammered a home run for a 16-game hitting streak.

The Tigers clubbed the Orioles to their fifth straight defeat with 15 hits, two by Al Kaline, who had a triple and a double and drove in three runs. Kaline's triple broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth against loser Jack Fisher (1-4).

Washington built an 8-1 lead against the Yankees with Dale Long's two-run double supplying the final cushion in the seventh inning. Starter Art Ditmar (2-2) was the loser. Left-hander Pete Burnside (1-2) won his first with relief help.

A pair of right-handers, Bobby Locke and Barry Latman, combined for a six-hit shutout for the Indians at Boston. Latman locked it up with 2 1-3 innings of hitless relief when Locke (1-0) gave way because of arm trouble in the seventh.

Top Negley, 9-2, For Second

Cox-Merchants Take Over 1st Place In County Loop

The East Liverpool entry in the County-City League — Cox - Merchants—was resting in first place today after handing Negley a 9-2 setback Wednesday at Negley.

While the Merchants were gaining their second win in two starts, East Palestine belted Columbiana, 10-0, and Salem scored a 10-4 victory over Leetonia.

This left East Liverpool with a 2-0 mark, while four teams are tied with 1-1 records. Leetonia is 0-2.

Righthander Jim Dickey chalked up his first victory of the season. As the starting hurler, he pitched four innings, then gave way to lefthander Jim Burkes. Between them they allowed only six hits.

The Merchants exploded for 10 hits, including a four-for-four night by Hobbs which included three singles and a double.

Varsity Awards Presented

120 At Dinner Honoring Stanton Local Athletes

An amusing talk by Al DeLuca, head football coach at St. Vincent College, and the presentation of 21 varsity letters and seven reserve awards highlighted the annual All-Sports banquet for Stanton Local athletes Wednesday night at the school's cafeteria.

Some 120 attended the event, which honored members of the school's football, basketball, baseball and junior high squads.

Stanton's basketball squad under Coach Harry Diehl was cited for its outstanding 19-1 record and for winning the Jefferson County championship. Coach Fred Sims' football squad also compiled a winning season of 6 wins and 4 defeats.

Supt. C. P. Henderson was master of ceremonies and introduced Sims, who presented varsity letters to 16 gridders. Senior players receiving awards were Keith Burgett, David Davis, Wayne Ketchum, Ernest Leedy and Terry Tice; juniors, Charles Allen, Tom Carpenter, Kent Cline, Tom Grafton, Larry Grimm, Bob Mills, Dorman Patterson, Robert Perkins, Curtis Rose and Stanley Wickham. John Pearson was the only sophomore to win a varsity award. Letters also were given to Jeffrey Biacco and Floyd Miner, managers.

Turning to basketball, Diehl spoke briefly about the season and thanked his team for making it such a success. The past season was Diehl's first in coaching.

He presented five varsity letters to John Lutton, a senior, and juniors Mills, Rose, Jim Leedy and Don Spires, who was named to the first Class A All-Ohio team.

Cheerleading awards went to Kay Stewart, Karen Tolson and Bonnie Lawrence. They were presented by Miss Lyda Ann Sinkora, sponsor.

Jay Hamilton, baseball mentor and junior high coach, was introduced. Gifts were presented to each coach by his respective team.

DeLuca, one of the topnotch after-dinner speakers, recalled comical incidents in his coaching career, which extends over 27 years.

He has been head football coach at St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., for the past 12 seasons, owning one unbeaten and untied season which led the Bearcats into the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., in 1949.

DeLucas was introduced by Supt. Henderson.

Berhar Hurls 2-Hitter In Beavers' 2-1 Win

Berhar limited the Indians to a pair of hits and smacked a two-run triple in the seventh inning.

The victory was Beaver Local's sixth in seven starts. Berhar recorded 10 strikeouts in going the distance.

Ron Ensinger got the Beavers off on the right foot with a two-run homer in the first inning. Salineville scored its lone run in the opening frame.

Rog Giannone was the losing pitcher.

Salineville will visit Beaver Local Friday afternoon.

An East Liverpool golf team suffering from the effects of a minor auto accident was shut out, 8-0, Wednesday by Ursuline High School at Youngstown.

According to Nate Lorah, who was driving the team to Youngstown, a car which he attempted to pass on Route 7 drifted out of its lane and into his car, causing damage to both autos. No one was injured.

Bob Putt and Rick Crable shot 43's for the Potters, while Bob Gilmore added a 46 and Dave Thorne a 53. Jim Taylor of Ursuline captured medalist honors with a 39.

The East Liverpool golfers will compete in the district tournament Saturday at St. Clairsville.

71 Golfers Open Bid In Sam Snead Event

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Sam Snead, who collects golf tournament gold with all the zest of a '49er, swung out in quest of his 108th tournament title today against a field of 71 competitors in the 14th annual Sam Snead Festival.

The West Virginia slammer faced opposition from such as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and defending champion Dave Marr, who slipped in with a 15-under 265 last year to win the 72-hole medal play event.

Observers here figured a 265 would be good enough to win again if the weather stays good.

Snead knows his own layout so well that the White Sulphur Springs capitalist has at times toured it in par 70 using nothing more than a tree branch and a putter.

Snead has won the tournament five times. His 259 in 1959 equaled the tournament record set by Ben Hogan in 1950.

It Isn't All The Fault Of Sponsors

Dropping still another indictment into the troubled seas of network television, a spokesman for a major TV sponsor makes the startling claim that a network thwarted his company's attempt to further the cause of public affairs programming in the prime time hours. Said spokesman, a General Electric executive who for obvious reasons requested anonymity, speaks out, he says, not in anger but with a genuine desire to show that sponsors are not always the ogres they're made out to be.

Marie Torre

In this case, the sponsor tried to be a do-gooder. Even before FCC chairman Newton N. Minow handed down the ultimatum for the upgrading of TV programming, the "General Electric Theater" management notified CBS that it was willing—nay, eager—to depart from the Sunday night half-hour dramas on at least six occasions next season for the presentation of CBS-produced public affairs documentaries.

-:-

THE REQUEST was inspired by an experiment last November, when "General Electric Theater" presented in its Sunday night time period, and in the half hour that followed, a 60-minute network-produced documentary called "The Influential Americans," which dealt with experimental teaching methods.

The rating was about half of that pulled by the average "General Electric" drama, but the prestige values were high.

"The secondary effects were tremendous," said our informant. "Good mail. Excellent reviews. We bought 140 prints of the documentary and distributed them to schools in our plant communities, among other places. We felt we had done something that was beneficial to TV, to education, and, let's face it, to ourselves.

"ENCOURAGED by this," he continued, "we told CBS we wanted to do more when we negotiated for the renewal of our eighth season. They said 'absolutely not.'

"We were told that the network had no interest in putting on public affairs programs Sunday nights at 9, that if we wanted to sponsor public affairs programs they will sell us any number we wanted but that they would go on at times the network felt they should go on.

"Now this was purely and simply a 'rating game' decision. Why, before our time commitment was squared away we were forced to look at the pilots of various situation comedies because some people very high at CBS thought that light comedy rather than an anthology series ought to be on Sunday nights at 9.

"We didn't happen to agree, and on this, at least, we won out."

UNDAUNTED by CBS' Sunday night edict, General Electric Co. is seeking scripts that combine drama with social commentary, stories that dwell on modern-day problems, issues and people.

"Maybe," continued the GE man, "these will be more effective in getting points across than the documentaries. I don't know. I do know we tried, on a straightforward basis, to do something worthwhile and were told we couldn't.

"Why am I telling you all this? To help balance the scales, you might say. When the FCC chairmen called television 'a vast wasteland' the other day, the critics who wrote about the speech made it seem as if all the evils of broadcasting were traceable to sponsors, that we never consider doing anything good, that we're absolute devils who seek to degrade the medium. "This is unfair. We have homes. We have families. We go to church. And we pay our taxes.

"The evils of television can't all be blamed on the sponsors."

WITH DAVE GARROWAY back on "Today," pinch hitter John Daly finished up with NBC with the suggestion by network executives that they get together for a "talk" one day soon. Daly, meanwhile, will be host anchor man of the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant" on CBS July 15. . . .

"Person to Person," with Charles Collingwood as host, will be back for a 12-week run this summer. . . .

The excellent "Project: Man in Space" special on WPIX-TV outrated all but ABC's "Real McCoys" and "My Three Sons" in the metropolitan area.

Rumors Fly, But Finally Fall To Earth

By DON GUY

ANDOVER, Maine (AP) — This remote village in the mountains of western Maine has been launching imaginary men into space for months.

Some townspeople even figured out that plans were a foot to catch misdirected astronauts in giant nets stretched on mountain peaks.

The rumors shot out of orbit but came to earth when the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. disclosed that the world's largest antenna for telephone satellite communication will be built atop a hill east of the village.

The rumors started when strangers came to town and bought over a thousand acres of high ground considered worthless except for pulpwood and lumber.

When the strangers hired 50 local men and started building a road into the wilderness the rumors took off. But cash being paid out was a real down-to-earth bonanza in this village of 900 souls.

Andover has only a few farms, three small woodworking plants and logging to provide local employment.

Burdick Pierce of Wilton, Conn. a veteran of radar construction in Alaska, is field engineer of the $7-million AT&T test facility. Most of the surveyors and engineers are from the Michael Baker Co. of Rochester, Pa.

After a road has been completed and a site prepared, a 250-ton steel and aluminum "horn" antenna, largest of its type ever built, will be erected. The 177-by-94-foot "horn" will be used to pick up faint signals from Europe relayed by orbiting satellites and also to send out signals to be relayed by satellites back to Europe.

Out Of The Air

It Isn't All The Fault Of Sponsors

Dropping still another indictment into the troubled seas of network television, a spokesman for a major TV sponsor makes the startling claim that a network thwarted his company's attempt to further the cause of public affairs programming in the prime time hours. Said spokesman, a General Electric executive who for obvious reasons requested anonymity, speaks out, he says, not in anger but with a genuine desire to show that sponsors are not always the ogres they're made out to be.

Marie Torre

In this case, the sponsor tried to be a do-gooder. Even before FCC chairman Newton N. Minow handed down the ultimatum for the upgrading of TV programming, the "General Electric Theater" management notified CBS that it was willing—nay, eager—to depart from the Sunday night half-hour dramas on at least six occasions next season for the presentation of CBS-produced public affairs documentaries.

-:-

THE REQUEST was inspired by an experiment last November, when "General Electric Theater" presented in its Sunday night time period, and in the half hour that followed, a 60-minute network-produced documentary called "The Influential Americans," which dealt with experimental teaching methods.

The rating was about half of that pulled by the average "General Electric" drama, but the prestige values were high.

"The secondary effects were tremendous," said our informant. "Good mail. Excellent reviews. We bought 140 prints of the documentary and distributed them to schools in our plant communities, among other places. We felt we had done something that was beneficial to TV, to education, and, let's face it, to ourselves.

"ENCOURAGED by this," he continued, "we told CBS we wanted to do more when we negotiated for the renewal of our eighth season. They said 'absolutely not.'

"We were told that the network had no interest in putting on public affairs programs Sunday nights at 9, that if we wanted to sponsor public affairs programs they will sell us any number we wanted but that they would go on at times the network felt they should go on.

"Now this was purely and simply a 'rating game' decision. Why, before our time commitment was squared away we were forced to look at the pilots of various situation comedies because some people very high at CBS thought that light comedy rather than an anthology series ought to be on Sunday nights at 9.

"We didn't happen to agree, and on this, at least, we won out."

UNDAUNTED by CBS' Sunday night edict, General Electric Co. is seeking scripts that combine drama with social commentary, stories that dwell on modern-day problems, issues and people.

"Maybe," continued the GE man, "these will be more effective in getting points across than the documentaries. I don't know. I do know we tried, on a straightforward basis, to do something worthwhile and were told we couldn't.

"Why am I telling you all this? To help balance the scales, you might say. When the FCC chairmen called television 'a vast wasteland' the other day, the critics who wrote about the speech made it seem as if all the evils of broadcasting were traceable to sponsors, that we never consider doing anything good, that we're absolute devils who seek to degrade the medium. 'This is unfair. We have homes. We have families. We go to church. And we pay our taxes.

"The evils of television can't all be blamed on the sponsors."

WITH DAVE GARROWAY back on "Today," pinch hitter John Daly finished up with NBC with the suggestion by network executives that they get together for a "talk" one day soon. Daly, meanwhile, will be host anchor man of the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant" on CBS July 15. . . .

"Person to Person," with Charles Collingwood as host, will be back for a 12-week run this summer. . . .

The excellent "Project: Man in Space" special on WPIX-TV outrated all but ABC's "Real McCoys" and "My Three Sons" in the metropolitan area.

Rumors Fly, But Finally Fall To Earth

By DON GUY

ANDOVER, Maine (AP) — This remote village in the mountains of western Maine has been launching imaginary men into space for months.

Some townspeople even figured out that plans were a foot to catch misdirected astronauts in giant nets stretched on mountain peaks.

The rumors shot out of orbit but came to earth when the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. disclosed that the world's largest antenna for telephone satellite communication will be built atop a hill east of the village.

The rumors started when strangers came to town and bought over a thousand acres of high ground considered worthless except for pulpwood and lumber.

When the strangers hired 50 local men and started building a road into the wilderness the rumors took off. But cash being paid out was a real down-to-earth bonanza in this village of 900 souls.

Andover has only a few farms, three small woodworking plants and logging to provide local employment.

Burdick Pierce of Wilton, Conn. a veteran of radar construction in Alaska, is field engineer of the $7-million AT&T test facility. Most of the surveyors and engineers are from the Michael Baker Co. of Rochester, Pa.

After a road has been completed and a site prepared, a 250-ton steel and aluminum "horn" antenna, largest of its type ever built, will be erected. The 177-by-94-foot "horn" will be used to pick up faint signals from Europe relayed by orbiting satellites and also to send out signals to be relayed by satellites back to Europe.

Marinate thin onion rings in French dressing; serve on crisp greens with slices of pickled beets. This salad goes well with fish, poultry or meat.

Gunman Takes Own Life As Police Storm Hideout

BOSTON (AP) — A desperate gunman hunted widely for two slayings of law officers put a bullet into his brain Wednesday night as police stormed his hideout in a fashionable Back Bay apartment house.

Edgar W. Cook, 48, less than two years out of Alcatraz, where he served a 14-year sentence for a post office robbery, died in a hospital 2½ hours later.

Police said he killed himself with the same tiny .25-caliber pistol with which he killed David S. Robinson, 53, warden of the Middlesex County jail, in escaping from that Cambridge institution Sunday noon.

Norman A. Porter Jr., 21, his companion in escape, remained at large.

Both Cook and Porter were held on murder charges. Cook was to have gone on trial Monday for killing a Cambridge policeman last September. The officer had surprised him attempting to break into a restaurant.

Porter was awaiting trial for killing a clothing store clerk in an attempted holdup at Saugus.

An informant frankly eager for a $5,000 reward posted by Middlesex County Sheriff Howard W. Fitzgerald telephoned the sheriff shortly after 6 o'clock and told him Cook was hiding in a third-floor apartment close to Kenmore Square.

At 9:20 a five-man squad led by Deputy Police Supt. Joseph J. Cummings and Cambridge Police Chief Daniel J. Brennan slipped out of an unmarked car a block away.

The officers heard a shot when they reached the apartment door. When they crashed through the door they found Cook sprawled on the floor, bleeding heavily, the tiny pistol beside him.

Hecklers Disrupt School Decision Rally In Harlem

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of Negro hecklers broke up a Harlem rally Wednseday night marking the seventh anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation ruling.

The hecklers, demanding an end to what they called Negro pacifism, shouted down speaker after speaker — including Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A clergyman, the Rev. Thomas Kilgore Jr., was struck in the chest by an egg as he began the benediction. He paused momentarily, then completed the prayer.

The agitators demanded that one of their number, Robert Williams, be allowed to speak. The heckling stopped when Williams took the rostrum.

Williams described himself as a suspended member of the NAACP chapter in Monroe, N.C. He said he was ousted in 1959 because "I advocated Afro-American men should defend their women and children."

Williams said the NAACP was a pacifist organization, adding: "We are not pacifists and we do not attempt to turn the other cheek. I am tired of being oppressed. I am going to meet violence with violence."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: That was a mighty strange answer you gave to the mother whose signature was "Worn Out."

She wrote that her child was destructive—broke furniture, knocked plaster off the wall and tore up everything he got his hands on. She couldn't take him to the homes of friends or relatives unless she virtually chained him to the porch. You told her the child sounded disturbed and suggested that she take him to a specialist.

In this day and age it seems stylish to treat every personality irregularity as a symptom of emotional illness. It's downright fashionable to be in treatment. Did it ever occur to you that the child might just need something to bang on?

The minister of our church plays the xylophone beautifully. If he hadn't entered the clergy he could make an excellent living as a professional musician.

He has often said that his musical training was the result of his destructiveness as a child. He, too, tore up everything in sight. His parents decided he needed something to pound on—so they bought him a xylophone.

The instrument is fairly expensive but it's a lot cheaper than a psychiatrist. Why not recommend it to more "Worn Out Mothers?" —L.A. READER.

Dear Reader: Thanks for an interesting letter. Others wrote along the same lines. One father said his son was an incorrigible until he bought him a set of drums. Others had similar success with accordions.

Xylophones, drums and accordions may serve as useful outlets for aggressions but when a mother writes that the child is excessively destructive, punitive to other children and that discipline doesn't make a dent, I suggest a specialist. If the doctor recommends music lessons that's fine with me. But I recommend a doctor.

Practical Advice

Dear Ann: Please skip the fairy tales and give me some practical advice.

I'm a woman 52 years of age but could pass for 45. I've been married to two no-good loafers, so I know what it's like to work two jobs at once.

I'm going with a widower who has no family ties, a steady job and makes fair money. He's crazy about me and will marry me whenever I say. The truth is he's pleasant but boring.

I know I can make him happy and all I want out of the marriage is somebody to take care of me for a change and a nice car to drive. He lets me use his car whenever I want it, and it's a pleasure not to have to take buses. What do you say?—MRS. EX.

Dear Mrs. Ed: Would you stick around if someone stole his car and he got sick and YOU had to go to work to take care of HIM? Think about it for awhile. It could happen.

Square Dancer

Dear Ann: I'm going with a fellow who loves to dance—but can't. He's always the first one on the dance floor and the last one off. He is totally unaware that he has no sense of rhythm.

I've talked to other girls who have dated him and they agree, so it isn't just me. Would lessons help—if I could get him to go?—NO TOES.

Dear No: Lessons can't give him a sense of rhythm. They may help him disguise his lack of it, however. Suggest it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Order To Kill 16 Jews Tied To Eichmann

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann personally ordered the execution of 16 Jews for trying to smuggle letters out of Theresienstadt concentration camp, testimony introduced by the prosecution at Eichmann's trial disclosed today.

Eichmann's order was reported by one of his colleagues in the Nazi campaign to liquidate the Jews, Capt. Siegfried Seidl, first commander of Theresienstadt when it was established in 1941, later commander of the Belsen camp and finally a staff officer with Eichmann during the purge of Hungary's 600,000 Jews.

Seidl was hanged after the war in Vienna.

The Israeli prosecution introduced an affidavit he gave Allied officers that told this story:

Eichmann, then in Prague, heard rumors that Jews were trying to get word out on the true conditions in Theresienstadt. He instructed Seidl to impose the death penalty on the 16 suspects.

"A Jew named Fisher was drafted as the hangman," Dep. Atty. Gen. Ya'akov Bar'or said, reading from Seidl's affidavit.

"Once the rope broke. That Jew was hanged a second time."

Theresienstadt itself, established in Czechoslovakia under the camouflage of being a ghetto for the aged, actually was used more as an assembly point for transports to the Auschwitz gas chambers, the evidence showed.

For lack of proper hygiene or medical care, 18,000 Jews died in Theresienstadt from late 1941 to 1943, Seidl's affidavit related. During that time at least 50,000 Jews passed through the camp "to the east"—the road to death.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Older Brother Feels He's Not Loved

A Minnesota mother of two boys, 11 and 9, writes of the elder: "Dave has threatened many times to kill his brother. He loves to hold him down or throw him against the door. "If Dave is looking at a book and Ken wants to see it, he will refuse to let him, or will hide the page or hold on to it longer than he needs to, even if it's a newspaper or magazine. "Both get high grades at school and everyone away from home gives us good reports about them.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"The biggest problem lately is Dave's rudeness to me and his constant remark that I don't like him, that I never did, and once 'Why don't you admit you hate me?'"

—:—

"THE YOUNGER boy is sweet most of the time, thoughtful, clean, neat and tidy. The older is sloppy, careless about dressing, leaves clothes all over his bed, lights on, doors open. He is not openly affectionate, sullen at times.

"Dave has to be told over and over to do something. Then either I — usually — or his father has to holler and get mad. Then he sulks but still fools around. . . .

"As a baby he would go to no one but me. I spent hours with him, playing, reading, walking. The younger had nowhere near the attention. Also, Dave was his Grandma's favorite."

My reply in part:

Naturally, Dave grows worse in those ways in which his younger brother is best, seeing the latter so often wins your approval.

—:—

CLEARLY, DAVE supposes he does not stand as well with you and Dad as his younger brother does, and the more he is rebuked and punished, the more jealous and, therefore, the more hateful he feels toward Ken and you.

This spiral will be hard to break.

First look for the good, strong points in Dave and build on them, you and Dad. Enlist cooperation from relatives and friends.

Since Dave is older, let him have privileges, such as a bit more allowance and a half hour later bedtime. Find many other ways to acknowledge his seniority. Remember that when the younger brother arrived, he stole away the center of the stage from Dave.

Decisively forbid Dave to hurt Ken. Also be sure that Ken does not provoke Dave to wrath, but minds his own business.

MAKE CLEAR to Dave the few things he must do regularly. Don't jaw and repeat commands. Set a penalty, such as requiring him to sit unamused, doing nothing, for exactly half an hour. Help each boy to cultivate some pals of his own age.

When Dave is rude to you, don't let yourself feel hurt or angry. Ignore his attitude or assign an effective penalty, as unemotionally as possible.

At some quiet, private moments with him try to lead him to choose to be more kind and gracious. Be sure then to dwell on some good ways of his, with strong approval. Do try to find more ways to enjoy Dave.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I "quiet down" squeaky floors?

A. One remedy is to drive nails in at the squeaky sections, being sure to drive them in at points where there are beams or crosspieces underneath. Another method is to clean out the cracks between the offending boards and insert liquid glue, using a putty knife to make sure the glue gets on the side surfaces of each board. Then detour all traffic from the area until the glue has had a couple of days or so to dry and set.

Q. How can I facilitate the skinning of tomatoes?

A. By placing the tomatoes in a basin, pouring some boiling water over them, and letting stand for a minute or so. You will then find that the skins can be removed with a minimum of trouble.

First Lady Wins Hearts Of Canadians

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — A First Lady only four months, 31-year-old Jacqueline Kennedy scored a major triumph here on her first state visit abroad.

Flying back to Washington today, she had the acclaim of top Canadian officials and the man in the street. She had been applauded in parliament and by thousands of others.

And, if Canada was a sample, it was predicted Mrs. Kennedy's appeal during a visit to Paris late this month may be even greater.

She "has conquered all of our hearts," was the way the speaker of Canada's senate, Mark Drouin, summed it up.

And Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker told Parliament people in the streets of Ottawa had greeted Mrs. Kennedy with "a special glow of warmth."

The President and Mrs. Kennedy wound up the major program of their two-day visit to Ottawa at a party they gave Wednesday night in honor of their official hosts in the picturesque setting of the U.S. Embassy overlooking the Ottawa and Gatineau rivers.

Mrs. Kennedy was reported exhausted after a long day of sightseeing and ceremony. But she and the President stayed at the party until 11:05 p.m.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: That was a mighty strange answer you gave to the mother whose signature was "Worn Out."

She wrote that her child was destructive—broke furniture, knocked plaster off the wall and tore up everything he got his hands on. She couldn't take him to the homes of friends or relatives unless she virtually chained him to the porch. You told her the child sounded disturbed and suggested that she take him to a specialist.

In this day and age it seems stylish to treat every personality irregularity as a symptom of emotional illness. It's downright fashionable to be in treatment. Did it ever occur to you that the child might just need something to bang on?

The minister of our church plays the xylophone beautifully. If he hadn't entered the clergy he could make an excellent living as a professional musician.

He has often said that his musical training was the result of his destructiveness as a child. He, too, tore up everything in sight. His parents decided he needed something to pound on—so they bought him a xylophone.

The instrument is fairly expensive but it's a lot cheaper than a psychiatrist. Why not recommend it to more "Worn Out Mothers?"—L.A. READER.

Dear Reader: Thanks for an interesting letter. Others wrote along the same lines. One father said his son was an incorrigible until he bought him a set of drums. Others had similar success with accordions.

Xylophones, drums and accordions may serve as useful outlets for aggressions but when a mother writes that the child is excessively destructive, punitive to other children and that discipline doesn't make a dent, I suggest a specialist. if the doctor recommends music lessons that's fine with me. But I recommend a doctor.

Practical Advice

Dear Ann: Please skip the fairy tales and give me some practical advice.

I'm a woman 52 years of age but could pass for 45. I've been married to two no-good loafers, so I know what it's like to work two jobs at once.

I'm going with a widower who has no family ties, a steady job and makes fair money. He's crazy about me and will marry me whenever I say. The truth is he's pleasant but boring.

I know I can make him happy and all I want out of the marriage is somebody to take care of me for a change and a nice car to drive. He lets me use his car whenever I want it, and it's a pleasure not to have to take buses. What do you say?—MRS. EX.

Dear Mrs. Ed: Would you stick around if someone stole his car and he got sick and YOU had to go to work to take care of HIM? Think about it for awhile. It could happen.

Square Dancer

Dear Ann: I'm going with a fellow who loves to dance—but can't. He's always the first one on the dance floor and the last one off. He is totally unaware that he has no sense of rhythm.

I've talked to other girls who have dated him and they agree, so it isn't just me. Would lessons help—if I could get him to go?—NO TOES.

Dear No: Lessons can't give him a sense of rhythm. They may help him disguise his lack of it, however. Suggest it.

---

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Order To Kill 16 Jews Tied To Eichmann

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann personally ordered the execution of 16 Jews for trying to smuggle letters out of Theresienstadt concentration camp, testimony introduced by the prosecution at Eichmann's trial disclosed today.

Eichmann's order was reported by one of his colleagues in the Nazi campaign to liquidate the Jews, Capt. Siegfried Seidl, first commander of Theresienstadt when it was established in 1941, later commander of the Belsen camp and finally a staff officer with Eichmann during the purge of Hungary's 600,000 Jews.

Seidl was hanged after the war in Vienna.

The Israeli prosecution introduced an affidavit he gave Allied officers that told this story:

Eichmann, then in Prague, heard rumors that Jews were trying to get word out on the true conditions in Theresienstadt. He instructed Seidl to impose the death penalty on the 16 suspects.

"A Jew named Fisher was drafted as the hangman," Dep. Atty. Gen. Ya'akov Bar'or said, reading from Seidl's affidavit.

"Once the rope broke. That Jew was hanged a second time."

Theresienstadt itself, established in Czechoslovakia under the camouflage of being a ghetto for the aged, actually was used more as an assembly point for transports to the Auschwitz gas chambers, the evidence showed.

For lack of proper hygiene or medical care, 18,000 Jews died in Theresienstadt from late 1941 to 1943. Seidl's affidavit related. During that time at least 50,000 Jews passed through the camp "to the east"—the road to death.

Older Brother Feels He's Not Loved

A Minnesota mother of two boys, 11 and 9, writes of the elder; "Dave has threatened many times to kill his brother. He loves to hold him down or throw him against the door. "If Dave is looking at a book and Ken wants to see it, he will refuse to let him, or will hide the page or hold on to it longer than he needs to, even if it's a newspaper or magazine. "Both get high grades at school and everyone away from home gives us good reports about them.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"The biggest problem lately is Dave's rudeness to me and his constant remark that I don't like him, that I never did, and once 'Why don't you admit you hate me?'"

—:—

"THE YOUNGER boy is sweet most of the time, thoughtful, clean, neat and tidy. The older is sloppy, careless about dressing, leaves clothes all over his bed, lights on, doors open. He is not openly affectionate, sullen at times.

"Dave has to be told over and over to do something. Then either I — usually — or his father has to holler and get mad. Then he sulks but still fools around. . . .

"As a baby he would go to no one but me. I spent hours with him, playing, reading, walking. The younger had nowhere near the attention. Also, Dave was his Grandma's favorite."

My reply in part:

Naturally, Dave grows worse in those ways in which his younger brother is best, seeing the latter so often wins your approval.

—:—

CLEARLY, DAVE supposes he does not stand as well with you and Dad as his younger brother does, and the more he is rebuked and punished, the more jealous and, therefore, the more hateful he feels toward Ken and you.

10 Are Jailed In New Dixie Bus Incident

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Police jailed 10 Tennessee college students — eight Negroes, a white girl and a white man—after the group was thwarted in an attempt to ride integrated on a bus.

A few who joined the group were also arrested at the Greyhound bus terminal. Most of the 16 were held in protective custody but minor charges were placed against three.

Police Chief Jamie Moore said he told the group prior to their removal, "It is dangerous for you, and for others, to stay here."

It was the second bus integration incident in Birmingham in three days. Several persons were beaten during brief mob violence last Sunday when a group of "freedom riders" sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) attempted to ride a Trailways bus to Montgomery.

Others of the racially-mixed CORE group were stranded when Greyhound drivers refused to drive their bus.

That same situation prevailed Wednesday after the Tennessee students arrived. Police met them at the outskirts of the city and arrested two of the party—a white man and a Negro—who refused to obey orders for segregated seating.

Upon arrival at the bus station the group was held aboard the bus for more than an hour. After police cleared the bus loading zone of about 150 bystanders, the students were allowed to enter the station.

They bought tickets to Montgomery, but the driver refused to drive the bus and the trip was canceled. Then the police paddy wagons arrived.

10 Are Jailed In New Dixie Bus Incident

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Police jailed 10 Tennessee college students — eight Negroes, a white girl and a white man—after the group was thwarted in an attempt to ride integrated on a bus.

A few who joined the group were also arrested at the Greyhound bus terminal. Most of the 16 were held in protective custody but minor charges were placed against three.

Police Chief Jamie Moore said he told the group prior to their removal, "It is dangerous for you, and for others, to stay here."

It was the second bus integration incident in Birmingham in three days. Several persons were beaten during brief mob violence last Sunday when a group of "freedom riders" sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) attempted to ride a Trailways bus to Montgomery.

Others of the racially-mixed CORE group were stranded when Greyhound drivers refused to drive their bus.

That same situation prevailed Wednesday after the Tennessee students arrived. Police met them at the outskirts of the city and arrested two of the party—a white man and a Negro—who refused to obey orders for segregated seating.

Upon arrival at the bus station the group was held aboard the bus for more than an hour. After police cleared the bus loading zone of about 150 bystanders, the students were allowed to enter the station.

They bought tickets to Montgomery, but the driver refused to drive the bus and the trip was canceled. Then the police paddy wagons arrived.

Court Approves Plan To Educate Child At Home

DUTCH NECK, N. J. (AP)—A Princeton University professor and his wife have won court approval to educate their three talented children at home instead of sending them to public school.

Dr. Daniel S. Trifan, 43, and his 34-year-old wife were cleared of disorderly conduct charges Wednesday by Magistrate A. C. Reeves Hicks, who ruled that the three children in question "are receiving an equivalent education in the academic sense."

The three, who have shown musical talent, have been educated at home through correspondence courses. The youngsters are Marioara, 11; Daniel, 9; and Richard, 7.

The Trifans had argued that if they were forced to send their children to West Windsor Township School, the children would not have sufficient time to develop musically. The three all play the violin and piano.

The School Board declared that the children needed formal school and the relationships with other children that such a routine offers.

Castro Suggests Captives For Bulldozers

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro has offered to trade more than 1,000 prisoners of the April 17 invasion for 500 American bulldozers.

The startling swords-for-plowshares offer Wednesday night evoked wild cheers from several thousand peasants assembled at the rancho boyeros agricultural fair near Havana.

If the prisoners are not ransomed, Castro said, "they will work hard, building trenches and fortifications, so that they will have to earn the bread they eat."

Referring to President Kennedy —whom the Cubans have charged with direct responsibility for the invasion—Castro said: "If they are his friends and he loves them so much, let him send 500 bulldozers and we will send them back." He added that captives charged with committing crimes during the Fulgencio Batista regime would not be returned under any circumstances.

Earlier, Castro told his audience that "agricultural production must be increased at all costs."

Dwelling at length on Cuba's shortage of pork and pork products, he said, "Every pig that we have must be preserved and fattened. Let us put off for a while those pig roasts we all like so much."

Ware Output Seen July 1

EAST PALESTINE — Production at the W. S. George Pottery Co. Plant 1, for which a leasing arrangement was signed Wednesday with Royal China Co., Inc., of Sebring, may begin around July 1.

Cleaning of the plant, which has been shut down for about five months, is due to get under way next week, with removal of unneeded materials and equipment to Plant 4. Repairs to the roof and sprinkling system are required at Plant 1.

Some 200 employes will return to work under the production plan set up by Royal China which has several large orders it cannot fill at its Sebring plant.

The George concern — founded in 1904 — went into receivership in 1957, and was subsequently reorganized wih many local residents assisting in the re-financing. A Small Business Administration Loan was received, but production fell off. A controlling interest was obtained in 1959 by M. J. Cappozzi of Canonsburg. Cappozzi is now president of the firm.

Paul J. Steffens, who had served as president, resigned a few weeks ago, and has taken a post with the Homer Laughlin China Co. of Newell.

Paul Steffens of East Palestine, formerly president of the W. S. George Pottery Co., has been appointed to the sales staff of the Homer Laughlin China Co. He will be in charge of Laughlin's New York City office and also will handle other sales in that area.

2 Sent To County Jail In Intoxication Cases

Two East Liverpool men were remanded to County Jail at Lisbon today in default of fines of $50 and costs imposed by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff when they pleaded guilty to intoxication charges filed under state law.

The fines, equivalent to jail terms of approximately 20 days, were decreed for Harold Amos, arrested at 12:34 a. m. today on Fairview St., and Nelson Barcus, cited about 8 this mornong on E. 6th St. Amos was released from the Lisbon jail only Tuesday after completing a similar sentence.

Amos also was fined $50 and costs on a charge of "disturbing and frightening the inhabitants of two dwellings" on Fairview St. Amos said he returned to his former home and knocked on the door. The judge ordered that he will "lay out" the two fines concurrently.

Unlicensed Motorist May Obtain Leniency

If a 20-year-old Wellsville motorist obtains a driver's permit by June 1, he may escape at least part of a fine of $25 and costs, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ruled today.

The judge imposed the fine on George E. Pinkerton, 1123 White St., Wellsville, but gave him until June 1 to pay. Pinkerton, recently discharged after three years' Navy service, told the judge he never has held a driver's permit.

If Pinkerton produces the permit by the deadline, that fact will be taken into consideration in possible mitigation of the sentence, the judge said. Pinkerton was cited on Route 7 at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday by the State Highway Patrol. Judge Chertoff said he was given leniency because he is a recently-discharged veteran.

Castro Suggests Captives For Bulldozers

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro has offered to trade more than 1,000 prisoners of the April 17 invasion for 500 American bulldozers.

The startling swords-for-plowshares offer Wednesday night evoked wild cheers from several thousand peasants assembled at the rancho boyeros agricultural fair near Havana.

If the prisoners are not ransomed, Castro said, "they will work hard, building trenches and fortifications, so that they will have to earn the bread they eat."

Referring to President Kennedy —whom the Cubans have charged with direct responsibility for the invasion—Castro said: "If they are his friends and he loves them so much, let him send 500 bulldozers and we will send them back." He added that captives charged with committing crimes during the Fulgencio Batista regime would not be returned under any circumstances.

Earlier, Castro told his audience that "agricultural production must be increased at all costs."

Dwelling at length on Cuba's shortage of pork and pork products, he said, "Every pig that we have must be preserved and fattened. Let us put off for a while those pig roasts we all like so much."

Ware Output Seen July 1

EAST PALESTINE — Production at the W. S. George Pottery Co. Plant 1, for which a leasing arrangement was signed Wednesday with Royal China Co., Inc., of Sebring, may begin around July 1.

Cleaning of the plant, which has been shut down for about five months, is due to get under way next week, with removal of unneeded materials and equipment to Plant 4. Repairs to the roof and sprinkling system are required at Plant 1.

Some 200 employes will return to work under the production plan set up by Royal China which has several large orders it cannot fill at its Sebring plant.

The George concern — founded in 1904 — went into receivership in 1957, and was subsequently reorganized wih many local residents assisting in the re-financing. A Small Business Administration Loan was received, but production fell off. A controlling interest was obtained in 1959 by M. J. Cappozzi of Canonsburg. Cappozzi is now president of the firm.

Paul J. Steffens, who had served as president, resigned a few weeks ago, and has taken a post with the Homer Laughlin China Co. of Newell.

Paul Steffens of East Palestine, formerly president of the W. S. George Pottery Co., has been appointed to the sales staff of the Homer Laughlin China Co. He will be in charge of Laughlin's New York City office and also will handle other sales in that area.

2 Sent To County Jail In Intoxication Cases

Two East Liverpool men were remanded to County Jail at Lisbon today in default of fines of $50 and costs imposed by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff when they pleaded guilty to intoxication charges filed under state law.

The fines, equivalent to jail terms of approximately 20 days, were decreed for Harold Amos, arrested at 12:34 a. m. today on Fairview St., and Nelson Barcus, cited about 8 this mornong on E. 6th St. Amos was released from the Lisbon jail only Tuesday after completing a similar sentence.

Amos also was fined $50 and costs on a charge of "disturbing and frightening the inhabitants of two dwellings" on Fairview St. Amos said he returned to his former home and knocked on the door. The judge ordered that he will "lay out" the two fines concurrently.

Unlicensed Motorist May Obtain Leniency

If a 20-year-old Wellsville motorist obtains a driver's permit by June 1, he may escape at least part of a fine of $25 and costs, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ruled today.

The judge imposed the fine on George E. Pinkerton, 1123 White St., Wellsville, but gave him until June 1 to pay. Pinkerton, recently discharged after three years' Navy service, told the judge he never has held a driver's permit.

If Pinkerton produces the permit by the deadline, that fact will be taken into consideration in possible mitigation of the sentence, the judge said. Pinkerton was cited on Route 7 at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday by the State Highway Patrol. Judge Chertoff said he was given leniency because he is a recently-discharged veteran.

Kidnap Thug Still Sought

The Wheeling FBI office today continued its investigation into the kidnap - robbery of a Youngstown youth who said he was forced at gunpoint to drive from the Mahoning County city into Hancock County early Tuesday night.

No trace has been found of the mysterious gunman who vanished into the woods between Newell and New Cumberland after robbing Donald Beard, 20, of $10.

Beard returned to his Youngstown home yesterday after relating the incident to Hancock County deputies, West Virginia State Police and FBI agents.

Beard, a former Youngstown University student, said when he got into his car Tuesday night a voice behind him said, "Don't turn around or I'll blow your head off."

Beard said "something cold" was pressed against the back of his neck and he was ordered to deflect the rear view mirror so that he was unable to get a glimpse of the stranger.

After following Route 7 to East Liverpool and then across the Chester Bridge and south on State Route 2 to New Cumberland, he headed north on Route 66, Beard told authorities.

About a quarter of a mile from the Koppers Co. plant, Beard said the gunman ordered him to halt, took the $10 and fled into the woods.

The only description he was able to give authorities was that the man was wearing a mint green sweater.

United Presbyterians Set To Broaden Unity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Signs were apparent today that the United Presbyterian Church will give the go-ahead to a broad, long-range plan aimed at uniting much of American Protestantism.

The Church's newly elected moderator, Paul D. McKelvey, a Los Angeles businessman, called for full exploration "in this direction."

A report for the morning's session of the denomination's policy-making General Assembly, declared the churches are "re-forming in our time" to heal their divisions.

A quotation from the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, was cited as depicting the need of the times.

"This challenge can be met by nothing less than a willingness on our part to take a radical step forward in our quest for visible, corporate unity among God's people," he said.

The first indirect test on the reunion proposal came Wednesday when McKelvey was elected. His nearest contender was backed by a delegate who implied opposition to the plan.

McKelvey, 53, who heads a real estate investment firm, said steps must be taken with care, and "we must have all the facts before us" in making decisions, but he favored "complete study" of the possibilities.

The proposal, which isn't expected to come to a vote until next Monday, asks that the Presbyterians invite the Episcopal Church to joint with it in merger talks with Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Ultimate goal would be establishment of a united church, truly catholic and re-formed, said the report, submitted by a committee headed by the Rev. Elmer C. Elsea of Denver, Colo.

Race Betting Measure Clings To Slim Margin

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A move to legalize pari-mutuel harness racing betting in Washington County inched ahead Wednesday in late returns from Tuesday's primary referendum.

With only five precincts missing, C. O. (Lefty) Williams, county elections chief, said "I don't think these can upset the apple cart."

The unofficial count, with 183 of 188 precincts tabulated, stood at 35,672 for pari-mutuel betting and 34,274 against it.

Williams said the outstanding returns were in precincts at Midway Borough, Hanover Twp., two in Fallowfield Township and one in Donora — all in the Monongahela River district where the proposal piled up big majorities.

Williams added there were 1,492 votes cast in the five missing districts and 195 absentee votes to be counted. The unofficial "yes" lead was 1,398.

Several factors accounted for the slowness in the count. First, paper ballots were used. And, secondly, several tally sheets ended up in sealed boxes with the ballots, Williams said.

"It was really a headache," he added.

The official count will start Friday. Even if the vote is favorable there's no guarantee a license will be issued for a harness race track in this southwestern Pennsylvania community.

In the 1960 primary, voters in five other Western Pennsylvania counties rejected the proposal to authorize betting on harness racing. They were Fayette, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Crawford and Erie.

Meanwhile, six eastern counties — Philadelphia, Northumberland, Delaware, Luzerne, Chester and Bucks — approved it.

Since then the State Harness Racing Commission has issued a license to a Philadelphia group, but the action is being contested in the courts.

In Washington County, church groups and others aligned themselves solidly against the issue. Racing interests campaigned vigorously for it.

The racing interests claimed pari - mutuels would pep up the area's economy by attracting thousands from elsewhere in southwestern Pennsylvania. Opponents countered that legalized betting would more likely drain the community's resources.

Should the voting come out favorable there is still the question of approval by the racing commission since it is divided by a 2-1 split in membership.

Science Club Donates $50

Presentation of a $50 check for purchase of equipment highlighted a Science Club assembly Wednesday night at Beaver Local Public School.

The check was presented to George Van Horne, executive head of the school district, by Mike Fisher, club president who served as master of ceremonies.

Six students also gave brief talks on various subjects. They included Dennis Horter, telephone; Marie Tychonievich, malaria; Glen Detwiler, fusion; Marilyn Hazel, heart disease; Jim Hamilton, rockets, and Karen Eells, cancer.

The program opened with Theodore Taylor, science teacher and club advisor, discussing the club's objectives. He was presented a gift by the club.

Club officers besides Fisher are Horger, vice president; Larry Ensinger, secretary; Jim Hamilton, treasurer; Jody Rice, Gerry Bourne and Glen Detwiler, public relations, and Theresa Apple, Karen Eells, Marilyn Hazel and Kay Porter, special events.

Projects made by the club and individuals and entered in various science fairs were displayed. Refreshments were served.

'Let 'Em Eat Rabbit,' Castro Says In Talk

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro, who has changed many other aspects of Cuban life, now has suggested a new menu for his island's people.

In a televised speech monitored here Wednesday night, he pushed these shortage-caused dietary substitutes:

Instead of beef, Cubans should eat rabbit. "I was amazed when I was told that a rabbit can produce more meat than a cow in a year or so. It's fantastic," Castro said.

Instead of cow's milk, Cubans should drink goat's milk. "I am told goat's milk has more fat and more proteins," he said.

Kidnap Thug Still Sought

The Wheeling FBI office today continued its investigation into the kidnap - robbery of a Youngstown youth who said he was forced at gunpoint to drive from the Mahoning County city into Hancock County early Tuesday night.

No trace has been found of the mysterious gunman who vanished into the woods between Newell and New Cumberland after robbing Donald Beard, 20, of $10.

Beard returned to his Youngstown home yesterday after relating the incident to Hancock County deputies, West Virginia State Police and FBI agents.

Beard, a former Youngstown University student, said when he got into his car Tuesday night a voice behind him said, "Don't turn around or I'll blow your head off."

Beard said "something cold" was pressed against the back of his neck and he was ordered to deflect the rear view mirror so that he was unable to get a glimpse of the stranger.

After following Route 7 to East Liverpool and then across the Chester Bridge and south on State Route 2 to New Cumberland, he headed north on Route 66, Beard told authorities.

About a quarter of a mile from the Koppers Co. plant, Beard said the gunman ordered him to halt, took the $10 and fled into the woods.

The only description he was able to give authorities was that the man was wearing a mint green sweater.

United Presbyterians Set To Broaden Unity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Signs were apparent today that the United Presbyterian Church will give the go-ahead to a broad, long-range plan aimed at uniting much of American Protestantism.

The Church's newly elected moderator, Paul D. McKelvey, a Los Angeles businessman, called for full exploration "in this direction."

A report for the morning's session of the denomination's policy-making General Assembly, declared the churches are "re-forming in our time" to heal their divisions.

A quotation from the Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, was cited as depicting the need of the times.

"This challenge can be met by nothing less than a willingness on our part to take a radical step forward in our quest for visible, corporate unity among God's people," he said.

The first indirect test on the reunion proposal came Wednesday when McKelvey was elected. His nearest contender was backed by a delegate who implied opposition to the plan.

McKelvey, 53, who heads a real estate investment firm, said steps must be taken with care, and "we must have all the facts before us" in making decisions, but he favored "complete study" of the possibilities.

The proposal, which isn't expected to come to a vote until next Monday, asks that the Presbyterians invite the Episcopal Church to joint with it in merger talks with Methodists and the United Church of Christ.

Ultimate goal would be establishment of a united church, truly catholic and re-formed, said the report, submitted by a committee headed by the Rev. Elmer C. Elsea of Denver, Colo.

Race Betting Measure Clings To Slim Margin

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A move to legalize pari-mutuel harness racing betting in Washington County inched ahead Wednesday in late returns from Tuesday's primary referendum.

With only five precincts missing, C. O. (Lefty) Williams, county elections chief, said "I don't think these can upset the apple cart."

The unofficial count, with 183 of 188 precincts tabulated, stood at 35,672 for pari-mutuel betting and 34,274 against it.

Williams said the outstanding returns were in precincts at Midway Borough, Hanover Twp., two in Fallowfield Township and one in Donora — all in the Monongahela River district where the proposal piled up big majorities.

Williams added there were 1,492 votes cast in the five missing districts and 195 absentee votes to be counted. The unofficial "yes" lead was 1,398.

Several factors accounted for the slowness in the count. First, paper ballots were used. And, secondly, several tally sheets ended up in sealed boxes with the ballots, Williams said.

"It was really a headache," he added.

The official count will start Friday. Even if the vote is favorable there's no guarantee a license will be issued for a harness race track in this southwestern Pennsylvania community.

In the 1960 primary, voters in five other Western Pennsylvania counties rejected the proposal to authorize betting on harness racing. They were Fayette, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Crawford and Erie.

Meanwhile, six eastern counties — Philadelphia, Northumberland, Delaware, Luzerne, Chester and Bucks — approved it.

Since then the State Harness Racing Commission has issued a license to a Philadelphia group, but the action is being contested in the courts.

In Washington County, church groups and others aligned themselves solidly against the issue. Racing interests campaigned vigorously for it.

The racing interests claimed pari - mutuels would pep up the area's economy by attracting thousands from elsewhere in southwestern Pennsylvania. Opponents countered that legalized betting would more likely drain the community's resources.

Should the voting come out favorable there is still the question of approval by the racing commission since it is divided by a 2-1 split in membership.

Science Club Donates $50

Presentation of a $50 check for purchase of equipment highlighted a Science Club assembly Wednesday night at Beaver Local Public School.

The check was presented to George Van Horne, executive head of the school district, by Mike Fisher, club president who served as master of ceremonies.

Following the presentation, Van Horne spoke briefly on a theme of "Science Never Stands Still."

Six students also gave brief talks on various subjects. They included Dennis Horter, telephone; Marie Tychonievich, malaria; Glen Detwiler, fusion; Marilyn Hazel, heart disease; Jim Hamilton, rockets, and Karen Eells, cancer.

The program opened with Theodore Taylor, science teacher and club advisor, discussing the club's objectives. He was presented a gift by the club.

Club officers besides Fisher are Horger, vice president; Larry Ensinger, secretary; Jim Hamilton, treasurer; Jody Rice, Gerry Bourne and Glen Detwiler, public relations, and Theresa Apple, Karen Eells, Marilyn Hazel and Kay Porter, special events.

Projects made by the club and individuals and entered in various science fairs were displayed. Refreshments were served.

'Let 'Em Eat Rabbit,' Castro Says In Talk

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro, who has changed many other aspects of Cuban life, now has suggested a new menu for his island's people.

In a televised speech monitored here Wednesday night, he pushed these shortage-caused dietary substitutes:

Instead of beef, Cubans should eat rabbit. "I was amazed when I was told that a rabbit can produce more meat than a cow in a year or so. It's fantastic," Castro said.

Instead of cow's milk, Cubans should drink goat's milk. "I am told goat's milk has more fat and more proteins," he said.

Chamber Plans To Honor Top Seniors At 4 Schools

Fifty-three seniors representing the top 10 per cent of the graduating classes at East Liverpool, Chester, Newell and Beaver Local High Schools will be honored by the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner Wednesday at 6 p. m. at the Travelers Hotel.

The students will be presented certificates of recognition for their scholastic achievements. There will be 31 East Liverpool graduates, 11 from Beaver Local, 7 from Chester and 4 from Wells High at Newell.

Alvin T. Babb, Chamber president, will speak briefly, congratulating the graduates on their achievements and citing the value of education in later life.

The program is being arranged as a project of the Chamber's public education committee, of which Edwin Maloney is chairman.

The principals of the four high schools also will be guests: George Hargraves of East Liverpool, R. M. McFarland of Chester, Lee Kirkland of Beaver Local and Russell Slack of Wells High.

The Chamber will be represented by its Board of Trustees, the public education committee and chairmen of other committees.

Inivitations are in the mail from the Chamber to the students who will be guests.
